FDR Throws Full Weight Behind Labor Board

STRIKERS MAY LOSE DEFERRED DRAFT STATUS

Sanctions Are Threatened Against Firms Refusing To Obey Orders

PRESIDENT PRAISES WLB

Individuals Failing To Comply To Be Referred To Attorney General

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—President Roosevelt today in a sweeping executive order threw the full weight of the government behind the enforcement of War Labor Board orders, and threatened to cancel draft deferments of strikers in war plants.

At the same time, Mr. Roosevelt, in a letter to WLB chairman William H. Davis, also threatened to use sanctions against firms refusing to comply with board orders by withholding materials, transportation or even fuel "if this can be done without impeding the war effort."

If unions refuse to accede, the President added, the government will take over and operate plants, protect workers who want to work, and withhold union dues collected through the checkoff and refer the case to proper government enforcement officials.

In the case of individuals who do not comply—and here the President apparently meant both union leaders and workers who refuse to remain on the job—the matter will be referred to Attorney General Biddle. The President also warned that "sanctions can be applied by the Selective Service and the War Manpower Commission" for individual non-compliance.

To Cancel Deferments

Mr. Roosevelt said that the WMC, in cases of non-compliance with WLB edicts, should issue the "appropriate orders relating to the modification or cancellation of draft deferments."

The WLB has been clamoring for months for powers to enforce its orders, although it is not now faced with any major strike. In his letter to Davis, the President praised the work of the WLB, but

CROPS COVERING PRIVATE GOLF COURSE OF KING

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—A crop of oats and rye now covers King George's private golf course as part of the drive to produce more home-grown food in Britain, the London radio said today.

"Six acres of lawn in front of the King's home are also under a crop of rye, and parsnips are growing in the ornamental flower beds," said the broadcast, recorded by CBS.

Would Use Fathers On Vital Jobs

West Virginia Senator
Urges Dad Exemption
To Aid War Effort

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, (D) W. Va., today urged the exemption of fathers from military service to provide necessary labor for the manufacture of vitally-needed civilian goods.

Kilgore, who has just returned from a tour of the South and West with the Senate Truman Committee, said he found the labor situation in agriculture and civilian goods production unusually critical.

"I do not feel there should be draft of fathers while we have an ample supply of light aluminum and sheet steel for production of civilian goods which are fast being worn out and damaged."

"People everywhere are desperately in need of many items which can be produced without harm to the war effort. Much of the fault lies right here in Washington and can be laid at the door of government agencies."

Kilgore declared that failure to relieve the shortage of civilian goods will have a pronounced effect on the nation's food supply because the utensils and equipment necessary for home baking, preserving and canning are not available.

"One of the items which I find is needed most," he asserted, "is the pressure cooker. It can be quickly and easily made from the ample supplies of aluminum which we now have."

"We are asking people to preserve foods, yet the cookers are not being provided."

He told, then, of instances in which public cooking centers have been set up where housewives may go and use pressure cookers on shares, contributing a quart of beans in return for each quart which they put up for themselves.

"This plan has worked successfully and is creating ample food supplies in some communities," Kilgore explained. "It is just an example of what can be done, yet here in Washington some persons are advising the people to abandon their accustomed ways and utensils and are urging them to use glass goods. I think the public should be given what it needs when it is there."

The senator predicted that unless production of utensils, electrical appliances, refrigerators and other items is resumed in part the post-war shortage and heavy demand for replacements will send prices skyrocketing beyond the reach of the average family.

"There may be no price control then and we will be helpless to control the trend," he said. "I think the situation is such that we can spare fathers and get some of this necessary production on the home front."

Kilgore also believes that unless sheet metals are made available to numerous small plants now idle and merchants are permitted to restock their shelves, the whole national economy will suffer sharper setbacks than have yet been experienced.

FINNS AND REDS TALKING PEACE, LONDON HEARS

LONDON, Aug. 18—The Daily Sketch quoted authoritative sources as saying today that Finland has received "approximate" peace terms from Soviet Russia.

The main points of the Russian peace proposal, it was said, was that if the Finns broke their military alliance with Germany before the Nazis are beaten the Soviet government would restore to Finland all of its territory except the Karelian isthmus.

On the other hand, the newspaper declared, if Finland continues in the war until Germany collapses, Russia will claim all of the territory it wrested from Finland in 1940.

Ration Board Mileage Panel Clamps Down On Traffic Law Violators

While first violators of OPA safe-driving regulations face penalties of varying degree, the mileage panel of the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing board gave notice Wednesday that persons who violate speed or other regulations a second time will suffer severe penalty.

The panel took severe action against Mrs. Beatrice Young, 215 West Union street, when Mrs. Young was cited for her second speeding conviction. An employee of the National Fireworks Co., near Chillicothe, Mrs. Young was ordered to refrain from driving so long as gasoline and tire rationing are in effect. If she is found driving a car, the panel decided, all gasoline rationings for that vehicle will be cancelled.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Well, the postmaster general has returned from a tour of four midwest states and reported his findings to the President.

No politics were discussed.

Mr. Walker said that the post-office pens in Montana, North Dakota, Illinois and Minnesota were all in good condition.

Except those bent out of shape by Republicans.

Illinois Republicans bent them the worst.

A few Democratic leaders called on Mr. Walker during his trip.

They were under the impression he wanted to talk politics, but he set 'em straight.

He told them that the American people weren't interested in politics at this time.

And he's got something there... the people aren't.

Thought for the day: No politics for the duration. Well... hardly any.

LONDON ALSO ASKS HOLIDAY FOR POLITICS

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 18—James F. Byrnes' plea for an adjournment of politics until next Fall won a hearty second today from Former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas.

In seconding the appeal of the director of the Office of War Mobilization, Landon, the 1936 Republican presidential candidate, took a slap at the national administration, declaring it was not heeding its own advice.

Commenting on Byrnes' plea, Landon said:

"That is exactly what we ought to do, but it takes two sides to adjourn politics."

"The more loyal an American man is the more necessary he regards it to combat the apparent efforts of a lot of behind the scenes theorists in Washington to stand our social and economic system on its head."

"The very fact that they are using the war emergency as a cloak for this makes it more imperative that we do not stop normal democratic procedures now."

HANNAH FILES APPEAL

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 18—Former showgirl Hannah Williams Dempsey today had filed an appeal to the interlocutory divorce decree awarded her husband, Lieut. Comdr. Jack Dempsey July 7. Under the decree, which would have become final October 16, Dempsey gained custody of their two daughters.

WAY PAVED FOR DOOM OF AXIS; FDR IN QUEBEC

President's Arrival Means Military Plans In Final Stage

BLOWS ON JAPS MAPPED

Plan Of Attack Ready For Study By Churchill
And President

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 18—President Roosevelt's presence on the scene of momentous military conferences between the United States and Great Britain today was viewed here as spelling the doom of the Axis in Europe, and a long step toward blotting out the Japanese menace in the Pacific, as well.

Mr. Roosevelt's arrival in Quebec last night was the unofficial, but unmistakable signal that joint staff military plans had progressed smoothly and satisfactorily to the final stage.

What remains to be done now, according to the program of the conference, is for the chief executive and British Prime Minister Churchill to approve or suggest revisions to the program for attack.

The chief executive, traveling under strict secrecy regulations, disembarked from his train at a way point outside Quebec city yesterday afternoon, and was immediately whisked to the Citadel, where he will remain in residence during the length of the conference.

His visit to this heavily fortified city represented the first time that any chief executive of the United States has traveled in wartime to English or dominion soil for a meeting with a head of the British empire government.

Hopkins Goes Along

With him came Harry Hopkins, chairman of the munitions assignment board, whose job it is to release American-made war materials to the various Allied nations in battle with Axis on the many fronts of this global war.

The appearance of W. Averell Harriman, lend-lease expeditor in London, was the first intimation to newsmen that he, too, had joined in the conversations.

Word from Washington that Secretary of State Cordell Hull would travel to Quebec during the late days of the meeting served as full confirmation of days-old reports that a United States diplomatic representative would be present to enunciate American policy in international political problems.

That these, as well as the military phases of the war are up for discussion at Quebec, has been accurately surmised since correspondents were informed that British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden would attend.

The entire war and political picture is being microscopically examined it was evidenced by the

REAL SHORTAGE OF BEEF LOOMS, CATTLEMEN SAY

CHICAGO, Aug. 18—The gourmet's juicy steaks and beef roasts will be rare—even if well done—in another month or so, cattlemen gloomily predicted today. That was their way of saying that a real beef shortage looms.

P. O. Wilson, secretary of the National Livestock Producers Association, said price ceilings on beef made it unprofitable for feed lot cattle raisers to fatten cattle on corn to make them prime animals. He guessed the shortage would begin to be acute toward the end of September.

R. W. Greiser, manager of the cattle department of the Producers Commission Association, agreed a severe shortage was on its way, but thought it might hold off till February 1.

Policies Outlined By Byrnes Signal Stiff Battles In Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18—The policies outlined by James F. Byrnes, director of the Office of War Mobilization, in his nationwide address today forecast a continuation of battles between congress and the administration.

With congress soon to return from its Summer recess and get-together with constituents, Byrnes outlined a program which contains the germs of bitter conflicts.

The fights are expected to center around drafting of fathers, the size of the armed forces and the continuation of present OPA and food policies.

In warning that "the roads to Tokyo and Berlin are still long, hard and bloody" Byrnes was believed to be indirectly warning congress that the administration will fight moves to defer fathers from the draft.

He carried the indirect warning further by comparing strength of the United Nations and the Axis on the battlefield, and in effect backed the program for armed forces of 11,000,000 men which would include fathers.

The announced determination to hold to the stabilization policy both as to wages and prices forecast a renewal of the battle over subsidizing the consumers' food costs.

Sen. "Cotton Ed" Smith (D) S. C., chairman of the senate agriculture committee, informed colleagues here that he is prepared to call the committee together as soon as congress convenes to launch a new fight against rollback subsidies. The administration policy was maintained during the early Summer only because a presidential veto was sustained.

The warning of a long and bloody war also forecast tightening of the belts of Americans with the possibility of draft-labor legislation being proposed if war production fails to keep pace with needs.

While War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt's job freeze orders are admittedly designed to avoid draft-labor legislation, many high officials in the administration predict that the government will be forced to a policy of drafting both men and women for war work.

Byrnes' plea for an adjournment of politics until the Fall of 1944 was accepted by Republicans as a change in tactics on the part of the administration.

MOTHER OF SIX SLAYS ALLEGED HOME BREAKER

DECATUR, Ill., Aug. 18—A 47-year-old mother of six children was held on a murder charge after confessing, police said, that she invited a widow into her home and then beat her to death because she was "running around with my husband."

Victim of the beating was Mrs. Vera Henry, 46, a widow, whose battered body was found at the bottom of the basement stairs in Mrs. Ham's home. Mrs. Ham said she had invited Mrs. Henry to her home to discuss the latter's conduct with the prisoner's husband, William, 57.

In her confession Mrs. Ham said she used a washing machine wringer and a piece of pipe to beat Mrs. Henry, tore off the victim's clothes, wrapped the body in a rug and rolled it down the stairs.

Leach said the prisoner admitted burning Mrs. Henry's clothing and washing the bloodstains from the walls and floor.

Ham had taken five of his children to a park before Mrs. Ham invited Mrs. Henry to her home. The families are related by marriage. One of Mrs. Ham's daughters is married to a son of Mrs. Henry.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 18—Axis casualties in Sicily totaled 167,000 men killed, wounded or captured up to August 10, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced officially today.

By International News Service

Allied bombers, continuing the war's mightiest aerial offensive against Adolf Hitler's tottering Fortress Europe, were revealed today to have hammered home crushing new blows on German industrial areas. Target for the night was the German research development establishment of Peenemunde, 60 miles northwest of Stettin.

"A great number of enemy aircraft were encountered enroute to Peenemunde and several were destroyed," the air ministry announced today.

Peenemunde is the largest and most important establishment of its kind in Germany. While the heavy bombers were battering Peenemunde, speedy wooden Mosquito bombers of the RAF struck at objectives in Berlin.

Americans Active

The attack on Peenemunde came in the wake of the heaviest American raids of the war. Three strong formations of Flying Fortresses celebrated the first anniversary of the United States' Eighth air force's first raid against Europe by unleashing pulverizing daylight attacks against a ball-bearing works at Schweinfurt and a plane factory at Regensburg in

LEGION FAVORS STERN HANDLING OF JAPANESE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18—

Prompted by a fiery address from Rep. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington, delegates to the California state convention of the American Legion today approved some of the strongest resolutions on the Japanese question ever adopted.

The resolutions included demands for immediate elimination of all Japs from the armed forces; complete control by the army of all Japs in relocation centers; segregation of Japs known to be disloyal; creation of a congressional committee to study all Japanese problems and passage of a house bill introduced by Rep. Leroy Johnson of California calling for a commission to effect at the end of the war the deportation of all Japs of proven disloyalty.

Magnuson, who termed Japan "our most despicable enemy," struck forcibly at "all who have sympathy with the Japanese."

"Some of these sentimentalists are urging that 15 or 20 Japanese in the camps who may be loyal should be an excuse for bringing thousands of them back to the West coast," he said.

"I say keep them out of here forever."

The Washington congressman, a veteran of World War I, saw nine months of action in the southwest Pacific last Winter as a navy lieutenant commander.

PEACE FEELER PROVES PUZZLE

German Broadcast Hints People Prepared To Overthrow Nazis

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—Informal observers were puzzled today at the frankness of a German propaganda broadcast last night which hinted that the German people may be ready to throw over their Nazi masters.

A German commentator, in broadcasts heard by both CBS and NBC, declared that "it is quite possible that the suffering, sacrifices and reverses of recent months have also chastened German extremists and made the people generally better disposed to accept a practical, workable and just peace."

Peace feelers from the Nazis are not new, but references to German "extremists" are a distinct innovation in Nazi propaganda broadcasts.

The German spokesman left little doubt as to whom he meant by the expression "extremists."

Said he: "You realize that it was the reaction to defeat and the injustice of the Versailles treaty that gave rise to totalitarianism, some of

In her confession Mrs. Ham said she used a washing machine wringer and a piece of pipe to beat Mrs. Henry, tore off the victim's clothes, wrapped the body in a rug and rolled it down the stairs.

Leach said the prisoner admitted burning Mrs. Henry's clothing and washing the bloodstains from the walls and floor.

Ham had taken five of his children to a park before Mrs. Ham invited Mrs. Henry to her home. The families are related by marriage. One of Mrs. Ham's daughters is married to a son of Mrs. Henry.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 18—Axis casualties in Sicily totaled 167,000 men killed, wounded or captured up to August 10, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced officially today.

By International News Service

Allied bombers, continuing the war's mightiest aerial offensive against Adolf Hitler's tottering Fortress Europe, were revealed today to have hammered home crushing new blows on German industrial areas. Target for the night was the German research development establishment of Peenemunde, 60 miles northwest of Stettin.

"A great number of enemy aircraft were encountered enroute to Peenemunde and several were destroyed," the air ministry announcement said.

Peenemunde is the largest and most important establishment of its kind in Germany.

While the heavy bombers were battering Peenemunde, speedy wooden Mosquito bombers of the RAF struck at objectives in Berlin.

The air ministry described the attack on Peenemunde as "well concentrated."

Americans Active

The attack on Peenemunde came in the wake of the heaviest American raids of the war. Three strong formations of Flying Fortresses celebrated the first anniversary of the United States' Eighth air force's first raid against Europe by unleashing pulverizing daylight attacks against a ball-bearing works at Schweinfurt and a plane factory at Regensburg in

LEGION FAVORS STERN HANDLING OF JAPANESE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18—Prompted by a fiery address from Rep. Warren G. Magnuson of Washington, delegates to the California state convention of the American Legion today approved some of the strongest resolutions on the Japanese question ever adopted.

The resolutions included demands for immediate elimination of all Japs from the armed forces; complete control by the army of all Japs in relocation centers; segregation of Japs known to be disloyal; creation of a congressional committee to study all Japanese problems and passage of a house bill introduced by Rep. Leroy Johnson of California calling for a commission to effect at the end of the war the deportation of all Japs of proven disloyalty.

Magnuson, who termed Japan "our most despicable enemy," struck forcibly at "all who have sympathy with the Japanese."

"Some of these sentimentalists are urging that 15 or 20 Japanese in the camps who may be loyal should be an excuse for bringing thousands of them back to the West coast," he said. "I say keep them out of here forever."

The Washington congressman, a veteran of World War I, saw nine months of action in the southwest Pacific last winter as a navy lieutenant commander.

PEACE FEELER PROVES PUZZLE

German Broadcast Hints People Prepared To Overthrow Nazis

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—Informers were puzzled today at the frankness of a German propaganda broadcast last night which hinted that the German people may be ready to throw over their Nazi masters.

A German commentator, in broadcasts heard by both CBS and NBC, declared that "it is quite possible that the suffering, sacrifices and reverses of recent months have also chastened German extremists and made the people generally better disposed to accept a practical, workable and just peace."

Peace feelers from the Nazis are not new, but references to German "extremists" are a distinct innovation in Nazi propaganda broadcasts.

The German spokesman left little doubt as to whom he meant by the expression "extremists."

Said he: "You realize that it was the reaction to defeat and the injustice of the Versailles treaty that gave rise to totalitarianism, some of south central Germany.

It was the first American "shuttle bombing" expedition over the continent, according to Brig. Gen. Frederick L. Anderson Jr., commander of the Eighth air force bomber command, and two of the formations, returning to British bases, completed record-breaking round trips of 1,400 miles. The third formation continued flying southward and landed in North Africa.

Other Flying Fortresses, taking off from Africa bases, carried out their first major attack on targets in southern France, blasting enemy airfields at Istres, Le Tube and Salon near Marseilles. Medium American bombers and RAF fighter-bombers raided other Nazi-operated airfields in northern France, at Poix, Bryassud, Lille and Vendeville.

A special joint communique of the British air ministry and headquarters of the U. S. army European theatre of operations said 36 Fortresses and five escorting fighters were lost in the attacks, while 33 Nazi fighters were shot down.

The German radio claimed that 58 American bombers were shot down in yesterday's operations.

Huns Retaliate

The German air force retaliated to the attacks by making scattered raids on towns on the east and southeast coasts of England which caused little damage and few casualties. Nine of the Nazi raiders were shot down over Britain and three more were destroyed near the bases in occupied Europe.

A Rome broadcast of an Italian communique heard in London said Allied planes also again raided the port of Naples and Capri, and in Calabria province, near the toe of the Italian boot.

While victorious Anglo-American forces completed occupation of Messina, marking the end of the six-week Sicilian campaign, Allied artillery and naval guns hammered away at the southern tip of Italy. The Rome radio nervously reported sighting of an Allied invasion armada including assault boats loaded with troops and tanks off the east coast of Sicily.

Shell Italy

Allied heavy artillery batteries hurled incessant salvos of shells across the straits of Messina into fortified positions on the Italian mainland. The bombardment, begun immediately after entry of American troops into the shell and bomb ruined port, was intensified as the main body of the British Eighth army arrived in Messina to join forces with the United States Seventh army.

Shell after shell was lobbed across the narrow two-mile neck of the straits to silence enemy batteries on the other side firing into Messina against the Allies. Reports to headquarters said the Germans and Italians had heavily fortified the Italian side of the straits, studding the coastal area with large caliber guns.

The artillery duel raged incessantly in a symbolic opening of the battle for the European continent as the invasion of Sicily passed into history.

With the Sicilian campaign completed, it was announced at Allied headquarters, "we will go ahead."

Reports from Switzerland said Italian troops in northern Italy were distributing soup to hundreds of thousands of refugees from the bombed industrial cities of Milan, Turin and Genoa and that evacuation of the towns of Como and Varese by August 26 has been ordered.

Japs Hard Hit

Allied air power also struck a heavy blow in the southwest Pacific when most of 225 Japanese planes massed at three enemy air-dromes on the northern coast of New Guinea were destroyed or severely damaged on the ground by heavy bombers of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command.

Approximately 1,500 Jap pilots and ground crew members were killed in the surprise assault and 160 Jap planes were destroyed and 50 others severely damaged at a cost of only three Allied planes.

In the Solomons, American jungle troops cleared Jap positions near Zieta village on New Georgia island and continued their advance toward Bairoko harbor, last enemy stronghold. Meanwhile Allied dive-bombers, bombers, torpedo planes and fighters delivered a pulverizing attack on the Jap air and supply base at Vila on Kolombangara island while other warplanes attacked other enemy bases and supply lines from Timor to the Solomons.

Russian armies driving towards Smolensk, Bryansk and Kharkov battled fierce German resistance after killing 7,600 Germans in bitter contests all along the raging 300-mile front.

Action was taken in six other cases by the mileage panel, the C card of William Amos, 207 West Corwin street, being suspended for 60 days, partly because Amos did not heed the panel's order to appear for hearing. It was emphasized that persons who fail to report when cited by the board will face heavier penalties than persons who do. Amos' card was lifted for speeding.

D. Adrian Yates, 344 East Main street, lost his C card for 10 days for a speeding conviction, and William H. Essick, 420 East Mound street, cited for driving 75 miles an hour, lost his C ration for 90 days.

Lenity was shown by the board in three other cases because of mitigating circumstances, no suspension being invoked, but warning being issued to James Denman, 153 Pinckney street; Eulas Dobyns, Williamsport Route 2, and John Reber, 351 East Franklin street, that if they are convicted again for speeding they will lose their gasoline ration rights.

made three points explicitly clear. They are:

1. When an employer refuses to comply, his plant may be seized and operated by the government in accordance with the terms and conditions of employment prescribed by the board.

2. If a union—local, national or international—refuses to comply, the plant will be taken over under the war labor disputes act and operated by the government if this action is necessary to maintain production and protect workers who wish to work. Union dues collected through the checkoff will be placed in escrow. All benefits, privileges and rights will be withheld.

Personal Penalty

3. Individuals may be penalized under enforcement powers granted the attorney general, or sanctions may be applied by the Selective Service and the War Manpower Commission.

A WLB spokesman hailed the executive order as providing the board with "sharper teeth and more widely distributed powers." The President noted that in the last 18 months only seven disputes of more than one thousand cases filed with the board were referred to the chief executive for final decision.

Of these four were union cases. Two cases involved the United Mine Workers, who are now operating under a WLB directive. UMW President John L. Lewis, however, has threatened to call another strike if the mine operators resume operations of the coal mines.

In cases of union violation of the compliance order, the President warned that all benefits, privileges or rights accruing to it will be withheld "until the union demonstrates its willingness and capacity to abide" by the directive.

Government operation of plants in all cases will utilize existing management as far as possible, Mr. Roosevelt said. He added that plants will be returned to their owners "as speedily as conditions permit," and in any event within 60 days after "the restoration of productive efficiency."

WILDCATS WIN IN FIRST GRID GAME OF YEAR

The season's first football game went into the record book Tuesday when the Northend Wildcats won a 30 to 26 contest from the East End Terriers.

The game was played in Bob Musser's pasture field.

Both teams have been practicing for about two weeks in preparation for the opener, and the first touch of cooler weather brought this contest.

Mid-season form was shown by both aggregations. Some of the "athletes" were equipped with headguards and shoulderpads, while others were stripped to the waist.

All the participants carried bumps and bruises Wednesday to prove they saw action.

The game was the first of a series that will probably last until after Christmas.

The new Democratic "line," in the opinion of some Republicans, is to suppress political discussion and at the same time choke off criticism of Mr. Roosevelt which would inevitably be a part of political moves.

MIRACLE DRUG NEWS GOOD, BUT TRAVELS FAST

By International News Service

Bad news may travel fast, but the good news of the miracle work of the magic-drug, penicillin, appeared today to have travelled faster still.

It started when the army released some of its rare supply of penicillin, hoping to save the life of two-year-old Patty Malone, dying, her doctor said, of septicemia, a blood disease.

Today Patty is resting comfortably, her temperature down to 102, her pulse virtually normal, and considered out of danger.

Today a dying girl in Chicago waited for an answer to her plea to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt that she use her influence to get the army to release more of the drug to aid her. She was 19-year-old Marie Adrienne Barker, a soldier's sweetheart, who telegraphed Mrs. Roosevelt:

"I do so want to live. Won't you please help me?"

Another plea came from Ruth Donley, 18, of Watertown, N. Y., who is suffering from a blood disease causing inflammation of the heart valves.

In Baltimore, physicians gave entire credit to penicillin for saving the life of nine-year-old Drema Dent. There Johns Hopkins hospital grows its own supply and officials revealed that other children have been treated with it.

Physicians at Muskegon, Mich., treating 14-year-old Kenneth Berkel, victim of a rare blood infection, today foresaw possibility of his complete recovery after a second treatment of penicillin.

The drug was first administered last Monday when the youngster was near death, doctors said. Within 24 hours his temperature had dropped to "near normal and the boy's general condition had improved greatly," it was added.

MRS. WARD ROBINSON TO TEACH LOWER GRADES

Mrs. Ward Robinson, South Pickaway street, has been employed by the Circleville board of education to teach in the elementary grades. Mrs. Robinson taught for many years in Mansfield, O.

While her assignment is not yet decided, Frank Fischer, superintendent of schools, said she will succeed Miss Rebecca Gordon, who has resigned to accept a kindergarten position in Piqua, O. Miss Gordon has taught for some years in the Walnut street first grade.

Definite assignment of teachers for the 1943-44 school year will not be made until just before school starts September 20.

About three-fourths of all sports equipment now being manufactured goes to members of the armed services and to those receiving pre-induction military training.

SECRET SERVICE IN DARKEST AFRICA

BERT W. RICHEY SERIOUSLY HURT IN NORTH AFRICA

Sergeant Bert W. Richey, 22, son of E. E. Richey, 160 1/2 West Mound street, was seriously wounded in North African fighting on July 6, the War department informed his father Wednesday.

No further information was provided in the telegram signed by Adjutant General James Ulio. Young Richey was serving in an infantry outfit at the time of his injury. The youth has been in service almost three years, the end of this month bringing an end to his first hitch.

The Richey youth has been in the thick of North African fighting since the invasion started. At one time he was captured by Axis troops, but the Allied advance was so fast that he was freed before he could be evacuated from the war zone.

Young Richey has a brother in service, Technical Sergeant Harry Richey of Fort Bliss, Texas.

T. R. CARTER, OF WILLIAMSPORT DISTRICT, DIES

Thomas R. Carter, 87, a widely-known farmer of the Williamsport vicinity, died Tuesday afternoon in University hospital, Columbus. He was a member of Mt. Pleasant Methodist church and a charter member of Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood. Six of his grandsons are in army service.

Mr. Carter was born in Nelson county, Virginia, April 19, 1856. He was the son of John F. and Martha Butler Carter. His wife, Ann E. Wallace, whom he married December 6, 1877, died June 1, 1940.

Mr. Carter leaves one brother, John D. Carter, Deer Creek township; four sons, George, of New Lenox, Ill.; Frank, Harry and William, of Deer Creek township, and one daughter, Mrs. Rose Tootle, Philadelphia, Pa.

Funeral services will be Thursday at 2 p. m., slow time, at Mt. Pleasant Methodist church, with the Rev. G. C. Reed, a former pastor, officiating. Burial in Springlawn cemetery, Williamsport, will be in charge of C. E. Hill.

made three points explicitly clear. They are:

1. When an employer refuses to comply, his plant may be seized and operated by the government in accordance with the terms and conditions of employment prescribed by the board.

2. If a union—local, national or international—refuses to comply, the plant will be taken over under the war labor disputes act and operated by the government if this action is necessary to maintain production and protect workers who wish to work. Union dues collected through the checkoff will be placed in escrow. All benefits, privileges and rights will be withheld.

Personal Penalty

3. Individuals may be penalized under enforcement powers granted the attorney general, or sanctions may be applied by the Selective Service and the War Manpower Commission.

A WLB spokesman hailed the executive order as providing the board with "sharper teeth and more widely distributed powers."

The President noted that in the last 18 months only seven disputes out of more than one thousand cases filed with the board were referred to the chief executive for final decision.

Of these four were union cases. Two cases involved the United Mine Workers, who are now operating under a WLB directive.

UMW President John L. Lewis, however, has threatened to call another strike if the mine operators resume operations of the coal mines.

In cases of union violation of the compliance order, the President warned that all benefits, privileges or rights accruing to it will be withheld "until the union demonstrates its willingness and capacity to abide" by the directive.

Government operation of plants in all cases will utilize existing management as far as possible. Mr. Roosevelt said. He added that plants will be returned to their owners "as speedily as conditions permit," and in any event within 60 days after the restoration of productive efficiency.

WILDCATS WIN IN FIRST GRID GAME OF YEAR

The season's first football game went into the record book Tuesday when the Northend Wildcats won a 30 to 26 contest from the East End Terriers.

The game was played in Bob Musser's pasture field. Both teams have been practicing for about two weeks in preparation for the opener, and the first touch of cooler weather brought this contest.

Mid-season form was shown by both aggregations. Some of the "athletes" were equipped with headguards and shoulderpads, while others were stripped to the waist.

All the participants carried bumps and bruises Wednesday to prove they saw action.

The game was the first of a series that will probably last until after Christmas.

PERRY BOARD FILLS TWO SCHOOL VACANCIES

Perry township board of education filled two teaching vacancies at its meeting Tuesday evening, hiring Mrs. Olive Woodway, the former Olive Grimm, of Washington C. H. to teach vocational home economics, and Mrs. George McGhee of Atlanta to teach fifth and six grades.

The school still has one vacancy to fill.

Policies Outlined By Byrnes Signal Stiff Battles In Congress

Roosevelt, and thus brought the 1944 election into the open, with Republicans beginning to lay their groundwork to discredit the administration on domestic policies.

Recently, however, Senators Carter Glass (D) Va., and Carl Hatch (D) N. M., called for a cessation of bitter criticism of Mr. Roosevelt, on the ground that it interfered with the war effort.

The new Democratic "line," in the opinion of some Republicans, is to suppress political discussion and at the same time choke off criticism of Mr. Roosevelt which would inevitably be a part of political moves.

MIRACLE DRUG NEWS GOOD, BUT TRAVELS FAST

By International News Service
Bad news may travel fast, but the good news of the miracle work of the magic-drug, penicillin, appeared today to have travelled faster still.

It started when the army released some of its rare supply of penicillin, hoping to save the life of two-year-old Patty Malone, dying, her doctor said, of septicaemia, a blood disease.

Today Patty is resting comfortably, her temperature down to 102, her pulse virtually normal, and considered out of danger.

Today a dying girl in Chicago waited for an answer to her plea to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt that she use her influence to get the army to release more of the drug to aid her. She was 19-year-old Marie Adrienne Barker, a soldier's sweetheart, who telegraphed Mrs. Roosevelt:

"I do so want to live. Won't you please help me?"

Another plea came from Ruth Donley, 18, of Watertown, N. Y., who is suffering from a blood disease causing inflammation of the heart valves.

In Baltimore, physicians gave entire credit to penicillin for saving the life of nine-year-old Drema Dent. There Johns Hopkins hospital grows its own supply and officials revealed that other children have been treated with it.

Physicians at Muskegon, Mich., treating 14-year-old Kenneth Berkel, victim of a rare blood infection, today foresaw possibility of his complete recovery after a second treatment of penicillin.

The drug was first administered last Monday when the youngster was near death, doctors said. Within 24 hours his temperature had dropped to "near normal and the boy's general condition had improved greatly," it was added.

MRS. WARD ROBINSON TO TEACH LOWER GRADES

Mrs. Ward Robinson, South Pickaway street, has been employed by the Circleville board of education to teach in the elementary grades. Mrs. Robinson taught for many years in Mansfield, O.

While her assignment is not yet decided, Frank Fischer, superintendent of schools, said she will succeed Miss Rebecca Gordon, who has resigned to accept a kindergarten position in Piqua, O. Miss Gordon has taught for some years in the Walnut street first grade.

Definite assignment of teachers for the 1943-44 school year will not be made until just before school starts September 20.

About three-fourths of all sports equipment now being manufactured goes to members of the armed services and to those receiving pre-induction military training.

President Roosevelt was officially welcomed on his arrival at Quebec by the Canadian governor general, the Earl of Athlone. Also present to greet him at the train stop were Churchill and Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

Athlone escorted Mr. Roosevelt to the Citadel, where crack troops representing the royal marines, the British air force, the Canadian air force, and the Royal Canadian navy participated in the official salute of welcome.

Immediately on his arrival at the Citadel, he was welcomed at a reception in his honor, given by Athlone and his wife, the Princess Alice.

There was a small dinner of welcome tendered to the President last night, with Mr. and Mrs. Churchill, Mackenzie King, and other high British and Canadian government officials present.

Auto Tire Inspectors To Get Instructions On New OPA Regulations

All tire inspectors of Circleville and Pickaway county have received notices to attend a general meeting in the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing board, West High street, Friday at 8:30 p. m.

Instructions on new tire inspection procedure, new eligibility classification and care and use of new synthetic truck and passenger tires will be provided by an Office of Price Administration spokesman.

E. W. Stebleton, chief clerk of the rationing board, said Wednesday that all inspectors who wish to continue serving in that capacity must attend the meeting, OPA officials have informed him.

Any inspectors who have truck tire accounts should have the owners or operators of the trucks present to receive the same instructions.

Importance of the meeting was stressed by the ration board clerk, who pointed out that the synthetic tire information would be valuable to all inspectors.

Local War Price and Rationing Board was authorized Wednesday to waive prescribed waiting periods in handling applications for replacements of lost or stolen food ration books where necessary to avoid "extreme hardship" on individuals acting in good faith. Present regulations provide a minimum ten day waiting period where hardship cannot be shown.

While use of an automobile in attending school is considered "occupational mileage", the War Price and Rationing board has been warned by Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown that it should be extremely careful not to issue any supplemental rations to a student who can get to his school by walking, by train, bus, or street car unless there is a full and regular car sharing arrangement.

"The indiscriminate allowance of supplemental rations to high school and college students who frequently drive around with 'B' and 'C' stickers has caused and will cause unfavorable public reaction to the mileage rationing program," Mr. Brown says in a communication to the local board.

Mrs. Carrie Runkle and Mrs. Elizabeth Millar are reported quite sick at their homes here. . . . Mrs. Walter Neubauer, near Marcy, abed for sometime recovering from an operation is doing well. Miss Lulu Garner is caring for her.

Jerome Peters, the long time youngest school teacher and farmer, will on next Sunday, the 22nd, celebrate in a quiet way, his 95th birthday. A few weeks ago he had a fall in the home causing a severe injury but he is slowly improving. He much enjoys recalling the things of his early life and of his school teaching days and recalls the time spent teaching when a young man out in the state of Nebraska when roving bands of Indians passed by the school but did no harm to him or his pupils. He keeps well up on current doings including the war news. Certain he would be pleased to receive a birthday card from you.

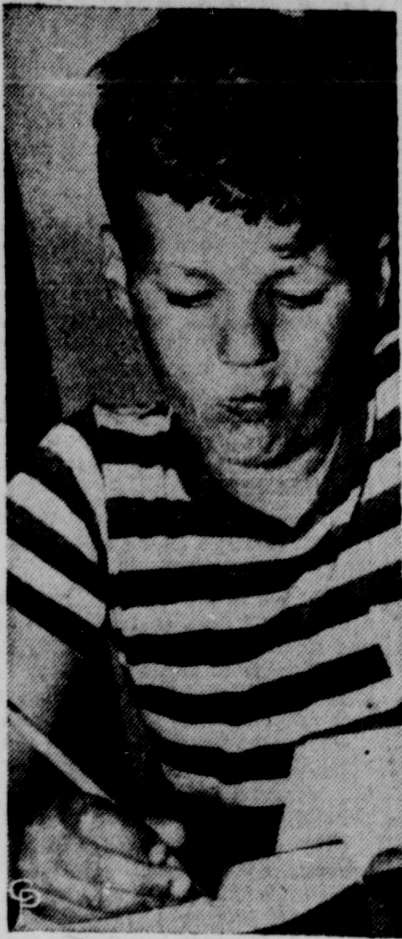

June Fay Litten, one of the twin daughters of Harry and Mrs. Litten who was operated upon last week at St. Anthony's hospital for appendicitis and hernia, is doing fine and hopes to be at home yet this week.

The Ashville-Harrison school board at its meeting Monday evening, other than employing three teachers to fill vacancies as named in The Daily Herald yesterday evening, employed Fred Curry for janitor and ground caretaker. Prince Moore, a licensed engineer, will be in charge of the heating plant.

The village council in session Monday evening, with the whole official family present, transacted no business other than the paying of bills. If and when some workmen can be found to do it, a considerable lot of cement curb and gutter will be constructed.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Seaman Second Class Robert Templin of Clarksburg has entered training at Great Lakes, Ill., naval station for submarine service. Young Templin, former athlete at Clarksburg, has returned to Great Lakes after a nine-day boot leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Templin.

Private Charles J. French of Pickaway township, who is training in the South, recently visited Silver Springs, famed Florida underwater fairyland, during a brief furlough.

Three Pickaway county draftees recently assigned to Fort Thomas, Ky., at the end of their furloughs have been sent from the Kentucky classification center to the field artillery school at Fort Bragg, N. C. They are Chester W. Fowler, Circleville; Darrell L. Graham, Atlanta, and Pearl E. Melvin, Ashville.

Private Guy E. Buskirk has returned to Camp Carson, Colorado, after spending a 10-day furlough with his parents, the Mr. and Mrs. William Buskirk, Darbyville.

First Lieutenant Herbert R. (Dick) Cockrill, former Walnut township school teacher, will leave his post at Camp Barkley, Texas, soon to attend a camouflage school.

CITY COUNCIL PLANS NAMING NEW MEMBERS

Circleville council is expected to fill two existing vacancies when it meets Wednesday evening, and then get down to business which has been piling up during the last several weeks when no meetings were held because of lack of a quorum.

Ray Cook, named last week to the Second Ward council job, will be asked to fill the vacancy left by death of Julius H. Helwigen. Mr. Cook will serve out the rest of this year and will then start his own two year term the first of January.

Council is expected to draw lots to determine whether Ray (Horn) Anderson or Troy W. White will serve the rest of the year in the vacancy left by resignation of W. E. Wallace as councilman-at-large. Both men have been elected councilmen-at-large for the next two year term. Since only one vacancy exists a choice will be made between the two men.

Among items of business to be handled as soon as the two vacancies are filled will be second reading and possible passage as an emergency of a curfew ordinance asked by Judge Lemuel B. Weldon of juvenile court. Council read this ordinance once, but speedier action desired because of the shortage of members.

With two posts filled tonight, council will have six active members, the seventh post being held by Frank A. Lynch, who is ill and unable to participate in council's sessions.

John Kirkwood of Chillicothe, brother of Montford Kirkwood of Circleville and former athletic coach at Clarksburg, is now serving in Palermo, Sicily, with the American Red Cross. Kirkwood was stationed in North Africa in charge of recreation work shortly after the invasion there started, but was transferred to Sicily when the invasion of that strategic island got under way.

Warrant Officer Walter H. Nelson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nelson, Sr., of South Court street, has been transferred from Biggs Field, El Paso, Texas, to Albuquerque, New Mexico. He is with the 396th Service Squadron, 12th Service Group, Air Depot Training Station, Albuquerque, N. M.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR DR. J. A. ROCKEY

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in Sunbury for Dr. J. A. Rockey of that village, a former Lancaster dentist and widely known throughout south central Ohio. Dr. Rockey had many acquaintances in Circleville. He had served several years ago as district deputy grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. Elks lodge and was a visitor here numerous times during his tenure of office.

The dentist died Sunday after an hour's illness of acute indigestion. Dr. Rockey removed from Lancaster to Centerburg several years ago and later to Sunbury. Survivors include his widow, Fern, a daughter and two grandchildren of Youngstown and a sister, who lives in Massachusetts.

One of the greatest of the world's unsung heroes, gasps the man at the next desk, perspiring freely, is the fellow who invented the shower bath.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have headaches? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you lack pep or vigor? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you get irritable easily? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel depressed—nervous? ☐ YES ☐ NO

Do you feel headachy—depressed—irritable—tired—due to a sluggish, constipated condition? Do you want faster and more effective all-around relief than you can get from an ordinary simple laxative alone? Then, as medical science proves, you should do two things:

1. Get liver bile flowing freely.
2. Clear out the intestinal tract.
To do both, take double-acting Carter's Little Liver Pills tonight. The first thing Carter's usually do while you're comfortably asleep is to increase the flow of liver bile—a vital digestive juice. This helps to digest your food properly. This first Carter action alone may make you feel much better when you wake up!
Then, Carter's second action helps relieve the sluggish condition that may easily be at the bottom of all your headachy, depressed, tired feeling.
Carter's double action is due to their special formula. Thousands know how well they work. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢ at any druggist's. Take as directed. You'll be glad you did.

RELATIVE OF CITY RESIDENTS DIES OF WOUNDS

Private First Class Howard J. Scharenberg, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scharenberg of Ross county and a nephew of Jacob and Joe Scharenberg and Mrs. Adam Kuntz of the Circleville community, died July 8 in North Africa of wounds suffered in action.

News of the soldier's death was received Tuesday by his widow, Mrs. Catherine Scharenberg, who lives with her father, Earl Shoemaker, Chillicothe Route 7.

Young Scharenberg was engaged in farming before he went into service January 19, 1942, 13 months after his marriage. He went overseas last September without seeing a baby daughter, who is now 11 months old.

The soldier is survived by three brothers and four sisters, his widow, daughter and his parents. Private First Class Scharenberg was trained at Camp Wolters, Texas and at Fort Bragg, N. C.

The soldier's last letter home was received July 4, four days before his death.

SHELLS WILL BE AVAILABLE TO OHIO'S HUNTERS

Circleville and Pickaway county hunters who have been wondering what they were going to use for ammunition during the fast-approaching hunting season received good news Wednesday when Clarence Francis, conservation officer, said that federal authorities had permitted release of 100,000,000 shotgun shells for the fall season.

Ammunition had become a matter of concern to many who not only enjoy hunting but have an idea that they may supplement a rationed table this fall and winter with game.

And coupled with this comes the report that Ohio's game crop is plentiful—sufficient to meet the army of hunters who will take to the fields on "off days" when they are not engaged at their wartime tasks.

License dealers say that they expect the release of shells will make a big difference in the number of licenses sold.

The 1942 hunting licenses expire August 31 and the new licenses have been placed in the hands of all dealers and are now available.

But the time for petition filing, September 2 as deadline, is several days away yet and enough willing ones will be found who are capable of doing a good job of operating the village affairs.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Seaman Second Class Robert Templin of Clarksburg has entered training at Great Lakes, Ill., naval station for submarine service.

Young Templin, former athlete at Clarksburg, has returned to Great Lakes after a nine-day boot leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Templin.

Private Charles J. French of Pickaway township, who is training in the South, recently visited Silver Springs, famed Florida underwater fairyland, during a brief furlough.

Three Pickaway county draftees recently assigned to Fort Thomas, Ky., at the end of their furloughs have been sent from the Kentucky classification center to the field artillery school at Fort Bragg, N. C. They are Chester W. Fowler, Circleville; Darrell L. Graham, Atlanta, and Pearl E. Melvin, Ashville.

Private Guy E. Buskirk has returned to Camp Carson, Colorado, after spending a 10-day furlough with his parents, the Mr. and Mrs. William Buskirk, Darbyville.

First Lieutenant Herbert R. (Dick) Cockrill, former Walnut township school teacher, will leave his post at Camp Barkley, Texas, soon to attend a camouflage school.

CITY COUNCIL PLANS NAMING NEW MEMBERS

Circleville council is expected to fill two existing vacancies when it meets Wednesday evening, and then get down to business which has been piling up during the last several weeks when no meetings were held because of lack of a quorum.

Ray Cook, named last week to the Second Ward council job, will be asked to fill the vacancy left by death of Julius H. Helwagen. Mr. Cook will serve out the rest of this year and will then start his own two year term the first of January.

Council is expected to draw lots to determine whether Ray (Horn) Anderson or Troy W. White will serve the rest of the year in the vacancy left by resignation of W. E. Wallace as councilman-at-large. Both men have been elected councilmen-at-large for the next two year term. Since only one vacancy exists a choice will be made between the two men.

Among items of business to be handled as soon as the two vacancies are filled will be second reading and possible passage as an emergency of a curfew ordinance asked by Judge Lemuel B. Weldon of juvenile court. Council read this ordinance once, but speedier action sought by the court has been impossible because of the shortage of members.

With two posts filled tonight council will have six active members, the seventh post being held by Frank A. Lynch, who is ill and unable to participate in council's sessions.

at Fort Belvoir, Va. Cockerill is a graduate of Miami university.

John Kirkwood of Chillicothe, brother of Montford Kirkwood of Circleville and former athletic coach at Clarksburg, is now serving in Palermo, Sicily, with the American Red Cross. Kirkwood was stationed in North Africa in charge of recreation work shortly after the invasion there started, but was transferred to Sicily when the invasion of that strategic island got under way.

Warrant Officer Walter H. Nelson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nelson, Sr., of South Court street, has been transferred from Biggs Field, El Paso, Texas, to Albuquerque, New Mexico. He is with the 396th Service Squadron, 12th Service Group, Air Depot Training Station, Albuquerque, N. M.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR DR. J. A. ROCKEY

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in Sunbury for Dr. J. A. Rockey of that village, a former Lancaster dentist and widely known throughout south central Ohio. Dr. Rockey had many acquaintances in Circleville. He had served several years ago as district deputy grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. Elks lodge and was a visitor here numerous times during his tenure of office.

The dentist died Sunday after an hour's illness of acute indigestion. Dr. Rockey removed from Lancaster to Centerburg several years ago and later to Sunbury. Survivors include his widow, Fern, a daughter and two grandchildren of Youngstown and a sister, who lives in Massachusetts.

One of the greatest of the world's unsung heroes, gasps the man at the next desk, perspiring freely, is the fellow who invented the shower bath.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have headaches? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you lack pep or vigor? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you get irritable easily? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you feel depressed—nervous? ☐ YES ☐ NO

Do you feel headachy—depressed—irritable—tired—due to a sluggish, constipated condition? Do you want faster and more effective all-around relief than you can get from an ordinary simple laxative alone? Then, as medical science proves, you should do two things:

1. Get liver bile flowing freely.
2. Clear out the intestinal tract.
To do both, take double-acting Carter's Little Liver Pills tonight. The first thing Carter's usually do while you're comfortably asleep is to increase the flow of liver bile—a vital digestive juice. This helps to digest your food properly. This first Carter action alone may make you feel much better when you wake up!

Then, Carter's second action helps relieve the sluggish condition that may easily be at the bottom of all your headachy, depressed, tired feeling.
Carter's double action is due to their special formula. Thousands know how well they work. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢ at any druggist's. Take as directed. You'll be glad you did.

RELATIVE OF CITY RESIDENTS DIES OF WOUNDS

Private First Class Howard J. Scharenberg, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scharenberg of Ross county and a nephew of Jacob and Joe Scharenberg and Mrs. Adam Kuntz of the Circleville community, died July 8 in North Africa of wounds suffered in action.

News of the soldier's death was received Tuesday by his widow, Mrs. Catherine Scharenberg, who lives with her father, Earl Shoemaker, Chillicothe Route 7.

Young Scharenberg was engaged in farming before he went into service January 19, 1942, 13 months after his marriage. He went overseas last September without seeing a baby daughter, who is now 11 months old.

The soldier is survived by three brothers and four sisters, his widow, daughter and his parents.

Private First Class Scharenberg was trained at Camp Wolters, Texas and at Fort Bragg, N. C.

The soldier's last letter home was received July 4, four days before his death.

SHELLS WILL BE AVAILABLE TO OHIO'S HUNTERS

Circleville and Pickaway county hunters who have been wondering what they were going to use for ammunition during the fast-approaching hunting season received good news Wednesday when Clarence Francis, conservation officer, said that federal authorities had permitted release of 100,000,000 shotgun shells for the Fall season.

Ammunition had become a matter of concern to many who not only enjoy hunting but have an idea that they may supplement a rationed table this Fall and Winter with game.

And coupled with this comes the report that Ohio's game crop is plentiful—sufficient to meet the army of hunters who will take to the fields on "off days" when they are not engaged at their wartime tasks.

License dealers say that they expect the release of shells will make a big difference in the number of licenses sold.

The 1942 hunting licenses expire August 31 and the new licenses have been placed in the hands of all dealers and are now available.

WAR RESPONSIBILITY

A dramatic and significant bit of war news came from Correspondent Harold V. Boyle in Sicily the other day. A young Nazi prisoner was weeping under an olive tree. His hands were blistered from digging graves for Nazi soldiers.

"Germany is lost!" he moaned. "What have people there to live for? They work hard, and none of them has any pleasure left in life. And we lose battle after battle. It is hopeless. Mussolini and Hitler—they are to blame for our troubles." His nerves were shattered by the intensity of the American artillery bombardment, that had lasted for two days. Some of his comrades were in the same nervous and hopeless state. "He's no superman," said Yanks who heard him. "He's just a cry-baby."

It is pitiful, of course. But to get the whole picture, any dispassionate observer would need to know how that broken lad and his comrades were feeling about their Fuehrer and his horrible war when they were winning. Did they not pride themselves, then, on the superiority of their race and the omniscience of their leaders, and brag about how they would conquer the world and make the rest of mankind their subjects and slaves?

There has not been a more wicked war in all history than the one they launched on a peaceful world. It is necessary to remember this, as the tide turns and civilization is saved from the destroyers.

LASS OF SECAUCUS

A boy from North Bergen, N. J., and another from Union City, strolling along, said something unpleasant to a girl from Secaucus of the same state. She got mad and told a couple of boys from her home town. A group promptly issued a challenge. On a blacked-out night a crowd of boys between 14 and 17 came to meet the dare and to fight it out at the stadium of Lincoln school.

When the police got there 120 battered and bloody boys were engaged in combat on the field, but the invaders were being beaten back by the home town defenders. Police rounded them up, wiped bloody noses and sent them home. No doubt a wonderful time was had by all, but it will be a long time before the visiting knights take in vain the name of any young lady from Secaucus.

Knights of the age of chivalry dared much for their fair ladies, but their jousts were mostly individual. One has to go back to Helen of Troy to find a lady starting a war engaging such multitudes. Great was the vindication and long will the tale be told of the fight on Lincoln field for the fair name of the Lass of Secaucus.

OPA's New 'General Manager' Bowles Theory No One Group Not Afraid of Toughest Task Has a Monopoly on Ability

WASHINGTON—Bronzed, clear-eyed Chester Bowles may yet rue the efficiency of the United States Coast Guard. The Coast Guard bore the tidings that he had been named to Washington's jinxed job.

The 42-year-old Manhattan advertising executive was vacationing off the Massachusetts coast in a chartered sailboat when OPA Chief Prentiss M. Brown appointed him as "general manager" of the embattled price and rationing agency. It took the Coast Guard some time to locate him.

Healthy Yaleman Bowles showed no hesitancy in getting to Washington. Disregarding the "advice of all my friends and advisers," he rushed in where the angels fear to tread with never a thought of the fate of two former OPA business managers—ex-Administrator Leon Henderson and ex-Deputy Lou Maxon.

Taking a confident grip on his new job, Bowles predicted:

"We should make real progress in the next six weeks." Later, at a staff meeting designed to pep up the sagging morale of OPA employees, the new general manager assured the workers that they were not going to lose their jobs, counseled them to keep their "chins up," and gave himself another three weeks to show results—Oct. 1.

OPA Chief Brown showed his good faith by virtually turning over the keys to the agency to Bowles. Regional OPA administrators and the heads of the price, rationing, rent, legal, professional services, information and administrative management were made directly responsible to Bowles.

In addition, the new general manager was given responsibility for reorganizing the agency as he sees fit. Bowles fired only a handful of "professors," however, as result of the congressional mandate that top OPA price executives must have business experience.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON

RISE IN BOOTLEGGING

WASHINGTON—Certain government officials who deal with the liquor industry strongly suspect that a multi-million dollar bootleg operation has developed in the United States.

They began to smell something when they got the latest figures, which show that the amount of liquor being withdrawn from warehouses for sale to the public is only 55 percent of last year. And there is every evidence that actual consumption of liquor not only has not dropped to 55 percent, but is even greater than last year.

America learned the tricks of bootlegging some years ago, when bootlegging was really beset with difficulties. It was illegal, during prohibition days, to distill liquor, to bottle it, and to sell it. Today, however, none of these processes is in itself illegal.

Temptation to carry on bootleg operations is very strong because of the vast quantities of alcohol available, and the tremendous profit in marketing this alcohol as a beverage. Industrial alcohol costs only 90 cents a gallon. Add five cents for "cleaning" the denatured alcohol, another five cents for bottling, and you have a 190-proof gallon of "beverage" which, after adding water to reduce the "proof," is marketable at $38 a gallon.

The difference between a cost price of $1 a gallon and the retail price of $38 is apparently more than some producers can resist.

Note: Alcohol Tax Unit inspectors are assigned to distilleries, but not to plants using industrial alcohol, as in the manufacture of paints or anti-freeze mixtures.

MORE MEAT

A Washington housewife walked into a chain store market with 35 red points and a hunger for ham.

She said to the butcher, "Could I get half a ham? I have only 35 points."

The butcher produced a six-pound piece. The lady did a little mental arithmetic. Nine points a pound, times six pounds, equals 54 points. "But I don't have 54 points," she said.

"That's all right, lady," said the butcher. "You can take it anyway. We have more hams around here than we know what to do with."

This is the first twitter of what will soon become a welcome chorus. Pork products are coming onto the market with a rush. In fact, marketings of both hogs and cattle are shooting upward, and this trend will continue through the late Summer and Fall.

Total U. S. meat production for 1943 is officially estimated at 23¼ billion pounds—nearly two billion pounds more than 1942, and by far the largest meat production in the history of the United States.

This staggering figure is so much greater than the 4.8 billion pounds required for the armed forces and Lend-Lease that there will be a comfortable quantity left over for civilian consumption.

Nevertheless, there is no plan to raise the ration allotment for civilians. It looks as if the combination of these two factors—abundant meat supplies and continued tight rationing—will produce more of the irregular marketing which the Washington Post has been reporting.

DIET AND HEALTH

Salt Cuts Worker's Ills

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

SOME OF THE most valuable methods of the prevention of industrial illness has come from the use of common salt. And these lessons could well be taken to heart by all of us in hot weather.

The reason the people of India object so strongly to the tax on salt—for long one of Gandhi's main arguments—is that they lose so much salt from their bodies in hot weather and it has to be replaced. The body has a fixed concentration of salt in the blood and tissues and any diminution of this leads to definite physiological symptoms.

In English mines where the workers have to go so deep that the temperature is always over 100, they lose so much salt by perspiration in one day as to give them cramps. It was found that this could be easily prevented.

Salt Water Beneficial
To a considerable extent in most parts of America in the summer time, hot weather over considerable stretches of time causes a loss of salt, which accounts for many hot weather symptoms—weakness, irritability and, in the experience of Surgeon General Flattery of the Royal Australian Navy, abdominal pain. He therefore has ordered that each man on board an Australian vessel be given half a teaspoon of salt in water twice a day while serving in tropical or semi-tropical waters. The response is almost immediate.

It is a procedure which might well be imitated by everyone during the hot weather in our continental United States, especially during this time when efficiency should be kept at its highest.

The health cranks who happen to get on the subject of the harmfulness of salt can be dismissed without much shift. The blood maintains a definite concentration of sodium chloride in its content and any excess passes off by the usual channels of excretion. The idea that salt causes hardening of the arteries is pure imagination without basis of fact.

Salt and Sippy Treatment
Another use of salt has been in conjunction with the treatment of ulcer of the stomach. In the classic Sippy treatment of ulcer, introduced in 1915 by Dr. Bertram W. Sippy of Chicago, and, in my opinion, never surpassed or supplanted, the patient gets large doses of alkalis to counteract the acidity of the stomach.

Critics of the method have harped on the idea that so many people taking this treatment get alkalosis. It has never happened but once or twice to my patients and then was transient, but in answer to the critics Drs. J. B. Kirsner and W. L. Palmer of Chicago have found that if the Sippy alkalization treatment is accompanied by ordinary common table salt the alkalization that the critics of the treatment so fear will not occur. Five to ten grams of salt are given a day in conjunction with the Sippy regimen.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
H. L.—What is leukoplakia of the mouth, its cause and cure? What causes burning of the mouth?

Answer: Leukoplakia is a white covering that forms over the tongue and lips. Its nature is little understood. Best treatment is by excision if the area is small enough, or electrocoagulation. When burning of the mouth appears, one thinks first of vitamin (riboflavin) deficiency and anemia.

E. D. C.—Will hemorrhoids eventually turn into cancer? Is operation the only cure for hemorrhoids?

Answer: Hemorrhoids do not turn into cancer. Operation or injection treatment are both effective. Often they go away by the use of a simple astringent suppository.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE
WHEN PAUL said that he had reason to believe that Martin Halliday might be a fifth columnist of sort sort, Karen felt she had just as many reasons to be convinced otherwise. Paul did not know Martin or anything about him. It was true that Karen only knew what Marty had chosen to tell her, but she felt she knew enough about him as a person, his character, the things he stood for and believed in, to know that such an accusation was ridiculous, as she staunchly had told Paul.

"If you have anything to say against him, go ahead and say it," Karen said.

"There's some sort of mystery about him," Paul told her. "I'll admit I can't say just what it is, but I do happen to know that he is being watched, although of course you must not say anything about that, Karen; it's the things he does, hanging around the docks, snooping around the beach all the time, poking his nose into everything."

"Those do not sound like very concrete conclusions, not even circumstantial evidence worth considering. This is a free country, isn't it? A person can look around, be inquisitive, do and say the things he wants to, without having to explain his every act, either." Karen still was indignant and worried. She did not like what Paul had said about Martin's being watched. Did Paul mean by the police? Karen remembered uneasily Marty's laughing remark that he dared not meet up with the police. But in the face of that—yes, in the face of any evidence or anything Paul might say—she would not believe such things about Marty.

"Yes, it's a free country—so far. That's what we are fighting for," Paul reminded her, "to keep it that way. But this is war, darling. People have to watch their step and motives, and the motives and steps of others. I didn't suppose, however, that that what I had to say about your friend would upset you so. If I had, I wouldn't have said it. I only thought you ought to know."

"I still think it's ridiculous," Karen said stoutly. Why, Martin himself had talked about saboteurs and the like; she remembered his words. He had said, "There are other methods of attack besides raids and invasion, attack from within, much more grave." Marty would not have talked that way to her if he plotted against his country.

"You'll hardly want Buffy to see much of a man like that, if there is the slightest suspicion of doubt," Paul continued. "That was another reason I thought you ought to know. As for yourself, you can believe in this peculiar friend of yours, if you wish, in fact, it's rather sporting of you, but you are always ready to give people a fair break."

"I hope so," Karen said. "That's the least anyone can do. Besides, she's seldom as they seem to be on the surface; people, even the ones we think we know best and believe in most, are not always what they seem, either." That would include Paul and herself, as well as Martin.

It apparently struck Paul in much that same way. His eyes dropped before her look for a moment; there was a faint stain of dark color on his smooth cheeks. He said, "That's very true, darling. And while we are on the subject of giving the benefit of the doubt, I thought it may seem to have nothing to do with it, there's something I want to tell you. It's really nothing much. You must believe that, please. But it hardly seems something not to tell you, when you are so darn decent and fair."

Karen said, "It's nice of you to say that, Paul. I wish it were always true. I try to be fair, but I may not always live up to it. Don't you, please, expect the impossible of me. I may not be all that I seem, either, you know!" She said it lightly, because he had grown so suddenly serious. But she meant it; it was as near confession about Martin as she would go. She did not know whether the confession Paul was about to make concerned Eva, but she hoped it would.

She steeled herself to meet whatever it might mean. If Paul were about to confess that he was Eva's lover, she would have to accept it. She would have to try to be a good sport, even about that. But it would be better to bring it out here in the open, even here in the somewhat incongruous surroundings of the cocktail lounge of one of the big seaside hotels where they were sitting.

"I'm willing to put all my bets on you!" Paul's dark eyes looked into hers again now. He raised his half-filled glass in a little gesture, as if to drink a toast to that, finished its contents before he spoke again. "It's nothing much, really—as I said before. It's about Eva . . . Eva Parks. You know you told me about her acting rather peculiarly about your ring. We agreed it might be . . . well . . . because she was just a little embarrassed, my having to put it out here, but I wanted you to know, Karen, that that's the way it started."

"I see," Karen murmured, twirling her own thin glass of sherry between her fingers. If Paul admitted it had started, then there must be more to it. She would have liked to have helped him; his embarrassment was embarrassing to her, but it was better to let him tell this in his own way.

"I don't expect you to entirely," Paul said. "But it's mighty decent of you to try. The first time she . . . well . . . at the risk of sounding caddish, she sort of threw herself at me. She cried, and told me the way she felt—about me, I mean. It was pretty embarrassing, too. There wasn't much I could do about it, except comfort her and of course you know she's just a kid."

"Of course," Karen said. But Eva had had a recent birthday; she would now be 18. She could not rely upon her childishness to excuse her for all her rash impulsiveness and lack of emotional control much longer. That would be the first time he had been with Eva, the night of the Festival.

"I didn't dream she took it seriously or I wouldn't have gone over. That was the night Buffy had his little upset and you wouldn't let me come to see you, darling. I had no business telling her we had had a quarrel, which probably was what led Eva to say and so some of the things she did that night. However, I'm making it sound as if it were all Eva's fault, which it was not. I suppose I sort of lost my head that night, too, being upset and thinking you were angry with me. But, well, all it amounted to, Karen, was that I sort of a cad toward both of you ever since. I tried to make Eva see that, afterward. I thought I'd feel less like one if I told you."

"I'm glad you told me," Karen said. And she was; for now there no longer was deceit between them, not over this. It did clear up Paul's side; he was not altogether to blame. It straightened things out—almost—between them. To make it all the way, perhaps Karen now should have indulged in confession. But that was something that had nothing to do with this, not now, anyway. WAR RESPONSIBILITY

A dramatic and significant bit of war news came from Correspondent Harold V. Boyle in Sicily the other day. A young Nazi prisoner was weeping under an olive tree. His hands were blistered from digging graves for Nazi soldiers.

"Germany is lost!" he moaned. "What have people there to live for? They work hard, and none of them has any pleasure left in life. And we lose battle after battle. It is hopeless. Mussolini and Hitler—they are to blame for our troubles." His nerves were shattered by the intensity of the American artillery bombardment, that had lasted for two days. Some of his comrades were in the same nervous and hopeless state. "He's no superman," said Yanks who heard him. "He's just a cry-baby."

It is pitiful, of course. But to get the whole picture, any dispassionate observer would need to know how that broken lad and his comrades were feeling about their Fuehrer and his horrible war when they were winning. Did they not pride themselves, then, on the superiority of their race and the omniscience of their leaders, and brag about how they would conquer the world and make the rest of mankind their subjects and slaves?

There has not been a more wicked war in all history than the one they launched on a peaceful world. It is necessary to remember this, as the tide turns and civilization is saved from the destroyers.

LASS OF SECAUCUS

A boy from North Bergen, N. J., and another from Union City, strolling along, said something unpleasant to a girl from Secaucus of the same state. She got mad and told a couple of boys from her home town. A group promptly issued a challenge. On a blacked-out night a crowd of boys between 14 and 17 came to meet the dare and to fight it out at the stadium of Lincoln school.

When the police got there 120 battered and bloody boys were engaged in combat on the field, but the invaders were being beaten back by the home town defenders. Police rounded them up, wiped bloody noses and sent them home. No doubt a wonderful time was had by all, but it will be a long time before the visiting knights take in vain the name of any young lady from Secaucus.

Knights of the age of chivalry dared much for their fair ladies, but their jousts were mostly individual. One has to go back to Helen of Troy to find a lady starting a war engaging such multitudes. Great was the vindication and long will the tale be told of the fight on Lincoln field for the fair name of the Lass of Secaucus.

OPA's New 'General Manager' Bowles Theory No One Group Not Afraid of Toughest Task Has a Monopoly on Ability

WASHINGTON—Bronzed, clear-eyed Chester Bowles may yet rue the efficiency of the United States Coast Guard.

The Coast Guard bore the tidings that he had been named to Washington's jinxed job.

The 42-year-old Manhattan advertising executive was vacationing off the Massachusetts coast in a chartered sailboat when OPA Chief Prentiss M. Brown appointed him as "general manager" of the embattled price and rationing agency. It took the Coast Guard some time to locate him.

Wealthy Yaleman Bowles showed no hesitancy in getting to Washington. Disregarding the "advice of all my friends and advisers," he rushed in where the angels fear to tread with never a thought of the fate of two former OPA business managers—ex-Administrator Leon Henderson and ex-Deputy Lou Maxon.

Taking a confident grip on his new job, Bowles predicted:

"We should make real progress in the next six weeks." Later, at a staff meeting designed to pep up the sagging morale of OPA employees, the new general manager assured the workers that they were not going to lose their jobs, counseled them to keep their "chins up," and gave himself another three weeks to show results—Oct. 1.

OPA Chief Brown showed his good faith by virtually turning over the keys to the agency to Bowles. Regional OPA administrators and the heads of the price, rationing, rent, legal, professional services, information and administrative management were made directly responsible to Bowles.

In addition, the new general manager was given responsibility for reorganizing the agency as he sees fit. Bowles fired only a handful of "professors," however, as result of the congressional mandate that top OPA price executives must have business experience.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON

RISE IN BOOTLEGGING

WASHINGTON—Certain government officials who deal with the liquor industry strongly suspect that a multi-million dollar bootleg operation has developed in the United States.

They began to smell something when they got the latest figures, which show that the amount of liquor being withdrawn from warehouses for sale to the public is only 55 percent of last year. And there is every evidence that actual consumption of liquor not only has not dropped to 55 percent, but is even greater than last year.

America learned the tricks of bootlegging some years ago, when bootlegging was really beset with difficulties. It was illegal, during prohibition days, to distill liquor, to bottle it, and to sell it. Today, however, none of these processes is in itself illegal.

Temptation to carry on bootleg operations is very strong because of the vast quantities of alcohol available, and the tremendous profit in marketing this alcohol as a beverage. Industrial alcohol costs only 90 cents a gallon. Add five cents for "cleaning" the denatured alcohol, another five cents for bottling, and you have a 190-proof gallon of "beverage" which, after adding water to reduce the "proof," is marketable at $38 a gallon.

The difference between a cost price of $1 a gallon and the retail price of $38 is apparently more than some producers can resist.

Note: Alcohol Tax Unit inspectors are assigned to distilleries, but not to plants using industrial alcohol, as in the manufacture of paints or anti-freeze mixtures.

MORE MEAT

A Washington housewife walked into a chain store market with 35 red points and a hunger for ham.

She said to the butcher, "Could I get half a ham? I have only 35 points."

The butcher produced a six-pound piece. The lady did a little mental arithmetic. Nine points a pound, times six pounds, equals 54 points. "But I don't have 54 points," she said.

"That's all right, lady," said the butcher. "You can take it anyway. We have more hams around here than we know what to do with."

This is the first twitter of what will soon become a welcome chorus. Pork products are coming onto the market with a rush. In fact, marketings of both hogs and cattle are shooting upward, and this trend will continue through the late Summer and Fall.

Total U. S. meat production for 1943 is officially estimated at 23¼ billion pounds—nearly two billion pounds more than 1942, and by far the largest meat production in the history of the United States.

This staggering figure is so much greater than the 4.8 billion pounds required for the armed forces and Lend-Lease that there will be a comfortable quantity left over for civilian consumption.

Nevertheless, there is no plan to raise the ration allotment for civilians. It looks as if the combination of these two factors—abundant meat supplies and continued tight rationing—will produce more of the irregular marketing which the Washington.

DIET AND HEALTH

Salt Cuts Worker's Ills

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

SOME OF THE most valuable methods of the prevention of industrial illness has come from the use of common salt. And these lessons could well be taken to heart by all of us in hot weather.

The reason the people of India object so strongly to the tax on salt—for long one of Gandhi's main arguments—is that they lose so much salt from their bodies in hot weather and it has to be replaced. The body has a fixed concentration of salt in the blood and tissues and any diminution of this leads to definite physiological symptoms.

In English mines where the workers have to go so deep that the temperature is always over 100, they lose so much salt by perspiration in one day as to give them cramps. It was found that this could be easily prevented.

Salt Water Beneficial

To a considerable extent in most parts of America in the summer time, hot weather over considerable stretches of time causes a loss of salt, which accounts for many hot weather symptoms—weakness, irritability and, in the experience of Surgeon General Flattery of the Royal Australian Navy, abdominal pain. He therefore has ordered that each man on board an Australian vessel be given half a teaspoon of salt in water twice a day while serving in tropical or semi-tropical waters. The response is almost immediate.

It is a procedure which might well be imitated by everyone during the hot weather in our continental United States, especially during this time when efficiency should be kept at its highest.

The health cranks who happen to get on the subject of the harmfulness of salt can be dismissed without much shrift. The blood maintains a definite concentration of sodium chloride in its content and any excess passes off by the usual channels of excretion. The idea that salt causes hardening of the arteries is pure imagination without basis of fact.

Salt and Sippy Treatment

Another use of salt has been in conjunction with the treatment of ulcer of the stomach. In the classic Sippy treatment of ulcer, introduced in 1915 by Dr. Bertram W. Sippy of Chicago, and, in my opinion, never surpassed or supplanted, the patient gets large doses of alkalis to counteract the acidity of the stomach.

Critics of the method have harped on the idea that so many people taking this treatment get alkalosis. It has never happened but once or twice to my patients and then was transient, but in answer to the critics Drs. J. B. Kirsner and W. L. Palmer of Chicago have found that if the Sippy alkalization treatment is accompanied by ordinary common table salt the alkalization that the critics of the treatment so fear will not occur. Five to ten grams of salt are given a day in conjunction with the Sippy regimen.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. L.—What is leukoplakia of the mouth, its cause and cure? What causes burning of the mouth?

Answer: Leukoplakia is a white covering that forms over the tongue and lips. Its nature is little understood. Best treatment is by excision if the area is small enough, or electrocoagulation. When burning of the mouth appears, one thinks first of vitamin (riboflavin) deficiency and anemia.

E. D. C.—Will hemorrhoids eventually turn into cancer? Is operation the only cure for hemorrhoids?

Answer: Hemorrhoids do not turn into cancer. Operation or injection treatment are both effective. Often they go away by the use of a simple astringent suppository.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

WHEN PAUL said that he had reason to believe that Martin Haldy might be a fifth columnist of sort sort, Karen felt she had just as many reasons to be convinced otherwise. Paul did not know Martin or anything about him. It was true that Karen only knew what Marty had chosen to tell her, but she felt she knew enough about him as a person, his character, the things he stood for and believed in, to know that such an accusation was ridiculous, as she staunchly had told Paul.

"If you have anything to say against him, go ahead and say it," Karen said.

"There's some sort of mystery about him," Paul told her. "I'll admit I can't say just what it is, but I do happen to know that he is being watched, although of course you must not say anything about that, Karen. It's the things he does, hanging around the docks, snooping around the beach all the time, poking his nose into everything."

"Those do not sound like very concrete conclusions, not even circumstantial evidence worth considering. This is a free country, isn't it? A person can look around, be inquisitive, do and say the things he wants to, without having to explain his every act, either." Karen still was indignant and worried. She did not like what Paul had said about Martin's being watched. Did Paul mean by the police? Karen remembered uneasily Marty's laughing remark that he dared not meet up with the police. But in the face of that—yes, in the face of any evidence or anything Paul might say—she would not believe such things about Marty.

"Yes, it's a free country—so far. That's what we are fighting for," Paul reminded, "to keep it that way. But this is war, darling. People have to watch their step and motives, and the motives and steps of others. I didn't suppose, however," his dark eyes regarded her intently, "that what I had to say about your friend would upset you so. If I had, I wouldn't have said it. I only thought you ought to know."

"I still think it's ridiculous," Karen said stoutly. Why, Martin himself had talked about saboteurs and the like; she remembered his words. He had said, "There are other methods of attack besides air raids and invasion, attack from within, much more grave." Marty would not have talked that way to her if he plotted against his country.

"You'll hardly want Buffy to see much of a man like that, if there is the slightest suspicion of doubt," Paul continued. "That was another reason I thought you ought to know. As for yourself, you can believe in this peculiar friend of yours, if you wish, in fact, it's rather sporting of you, but you are always ready to give people a fair break."

"I hope so," Karen said. "That's the least anyone can do. Besides, things seldom are as they seem to be on the surface; people, even the ones we think we know best and believe in most, are not always what they seem, either." That would include Paul and herself, as well as Martin.

It apparently struck Paul in much that same way. His eyes dropped before her look for a moment; there was a faint stain of dark color on his smooth cheeks. He said, "That's very true, darling. And while we are on the subject of giving the benefit of the doubt, although I may seem to have nothing to do with it, there's something I want to tell you. It's really nothing much. You must believe that, please. But it hardly seems sporting not to tell you, when you are so darn decent and fair."

Karen said, "It's nice of you to say that, Paul. I wish it were always true. I try to be fair, but I may not always live up to it. Don't you, please, expect the impossible of me. I may not be all that I seem, either, you know?" She said it lightly, because he had grown so suddenly serious. But she meant it; it was as near confession about Martin as she would go. She did not know whether the confession Paul was about to make concerned Eva, but she hoped it would.

She steeled herself to meet whatever it might mean. If Paul were about to confess that it was Eva he loved, she would have to accept it. She would have to try to be a good sport, even about that. But it would be better to bring it out here in the open, even here in the somewhat incongruous surroundings of the cocktail lounge of one of the big seaside hotels where they were sitting.

"I'm willing to put all my bets on you!" Paul's dark eyes looked into hers again now. He raised his half-filled glass in a little gesture as if to drink a toast to that, finished its contents before he spoke again. "It's nothing much, really—as I said before. It's about Eva . . . Eva Parks. You know you told me about her acting rather peculiarly about your ring. We agreed it might be . . . well . . . because she imagined herself in love with me. It's rather embarrassing, my having to put it that way, but I wanted you to know, Karen, that that's the way it started."

"I see," Karen murmured, twisting her own thin glass of sherry between her fingers. If Paul admitted it had started, then there must be more to it. She would have liked to have helped him; his embarrassment was embarrassing to her, but it was better to let him tell this in his own way.

"I don't expect you to entirely," Paul said. "But it's mighty decent of you to try. The first time she . . . well . . . at the risk of sounding caddish, she sort of threw herself at me. She cried, and told me the way she felt—about me, I mean. It was pretty embarrassing, too. There wasn't much I could do about it, except comfort her, and of course you know she's just a kid."

cuse her for all her rash impulsiveness and lack of emotional control much longer. That would be the first time he had been with Eva, the night of the Festival.

"I didn't dream she took it seriously or I wouldn't have gone over. That was the night Buffy had his little upset and you wouldn't let me come to see you, darling. I had no business telling her we had had a quarrel, which probably was what led Eva to say and so some of the things she did that night. However, I'm making it sound as if it were all Eva's fault, which it was not. I suppose I sort of lost my head that night, too, being upset and thinking you were angry with me. But, well, all it amounted to, Karen, was that I kissed her, but I've felt like all sorts of a cad toward both of you ever since. I tried to make Eva see that, afterward. I thought I'd feel less like one if I told you."

"I'm glad you told me," Karen said. And she was; for now there no longer was deceit between them, not over this. It did clear up Paul's side; he was not altogether to blame. It straightened things out—almost—between them. To make it all the way, perhaps Karen now should have indulged in confession. But that was something that had nothing to do with this, not now, anyway. "I don't think you are a cad, Paul," she lifted her eyes to smile at him. She was glad, oh, very glad, she had held on to her belief in him, as she must hold on to it with Martin. "And Eva . . . did you succeed in making her understand?" She had to ask this question. Only by asking it could she know if the "start" he had told her about was continuing, or if it was all finished.

The dark stains stood out in Paul's face again, but his glance did not avoid hers. "Not too well, I'm afraid. She insists it is serious with her, that she will not get over it."

Karen could hear Eva's voice saying again in that flat tone of finality, "If he marries you I'll kill myself."

"But of course she will," Paul finished, if somewhat lamely, for he did not sound or look convinced. "Maybe it's just as well," Karen said, making her tone just light enough to carry conviction, yet not conclusion, "that we postponed our wedding until spring."

"Why do you say that? I told you this really is nothing. Nothing to do with us, our marriage." "Are you sure about that, Paul?" "Of course. Darling, you don't think . . . I hoped you'd REALLY understand." "I do, truly I do, Paul." More than he could know, because of the way she felt about Martin, with all these personal relations in such a jumble. "I only meant it is best not to be married. After all, marriage is a pretty serious undertaking; it lasts a long while. But I want you to do something for me, Paul. Will you? Something that may seem an odd request, but that is what I really WANT you to do."

Today's Horoscope
If this is your birthday, and very early this morning you have to consider the elements of a strange problem, delay your conclusions about the puzzle until later in the day. Around 6:15 p. m. give time and attention to the instruction of children. Coach them in good manners. Good news may come to you about a national policy which can help you in the development of a transportation project. Later this evening you may have reason to rejoice about a change for the better. You have a keen, logical mind capable of great reasoning powers. Your courage, self-assurance and faculty for handling people suggest that you are a born leader. Your hobbies are of an intellectual and cultured nature.

Logan Elm Grange

Plans for entertaining Pomona grange Saturday at Pickaway school were completed by Logan Elm grange Tuesday at its regular session in the school auditorium. Frank Graves, worthy master, was in the chair and 45 grangers were present for the evening. Membership applications of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stonerock and Roger Jury were read.

It was announced that Harding Smith and Charles Mowery Jr. were grange members on the sick list. Three visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pontius and daughter, Barbara, were present.

The literary program opened with group singing of "Tramp, Tramp, the Grange is Growing," and was followed by a piano duet by Mrs. Harold Pontius and daughter, Barbara; a vocal solo by Mrs. Pontius was accompanied at the piano by her daughter; talk, John Kerns, who discussed his work as juvenile officer of Pickaway county.

Mrs. Charles A. Dresbach, Mrs. John Gehres, Mrs. C. O. Kerns, Mrs. Eva Dresbach and Mrs. Charles Kiger, older women of the grange, recalled incidents of their girlhood, telling of the many makeshifts used by them in contrast with the modern home equipment of today, of the many duties that fell to them as growing members of the family in comparison with activities of growing girls of the present. Their talks were made more interesting with the various displays of old-fashioned articles.

BUYS ANTIQUE BAYONETS

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Weapons used 80-odd years ago in the Civil War have been dug out of an old curio shop by Adj. Gen. T. A. Frazer for use by the Tennessee State Guard. They consist of 4,200 antique bayonets, purchased at 15 cents apiece, plus the scabbards at 10 cents each. Rusted with age when uncovered in a storeroom of a New York arms and curio shop, the old-time instruments of war were shipped to Tennessee and are now being refurbished in a state institution for distribution to the shotgun companies of the guard.

The literary program opened with group singing of "Tramp, Tramp, the Grange is Growing," and was followed by a piano duet by Mrs. Harold Pontius and daughter, Barbara; a vocal solo by Mrs. Pontius was accompanied at the piano by her daughter; talk, John Kerns, who discussed his work as juvenile officer of Pickaway county.

Mrs. Charles A. Dresbach, Mrs. John Gehres, Mrs. C. O. Kerns, Mrs. Eva Dresbach and Mrs. Charles Kiger, older women of the grange, recalled incidents of their girlhood, telling of the many makeshifts used by them in contrast with the modern home equipment of today, of the many duties that fell to them as growing members of the family in comparison with activities of growing girls of the present. Their talks were made more interesting with the various displays of old-fashioned articles.

Class Reunion

The class of 1936 of Williamsport high school held its annual reunion at Gold Cliff park, 14 members and guests being present. A bountiful basket dinner was enjoyed at noon.

Members of the class present were Maribel Ater of Columbus; Mary Clark, Margie Carmean, Virginia Lozier and Harold Gibson of Circleville; Helen Carter of Derby and Dan Noble of New Holland. The guests included Mrs. Dan Noble and son, David, Mrs. Harold Gibson and daughter, Vonnice, Judy Carter, Patty Betts and Frances Clark.

Thomas-Van Buskirk Reunion

About 60 were present for the annual reunion of the Thomas-Van Buskirk families at Neff-Anderson Springs park, near Mt. Sterling. Guests were present from many localities of the state.

Robert Colville of Circleville was elected president of the association during the business session; W. A. Downing of Wayne township, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Downing, Wayne township, secretary; Miss Leah Binns, New Holland, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. E. Clinder, Columbus, treasurer; C. B. Corkwell, Perry Willoughby and Oliver M. Fowler, members of the arrangements committee.

An excellent basket dinner was followed by an afternoon of informal visiting and games.

Present from Circleville were Robert Colville, Mrs. G. H. Colville, Miss Clara Southward, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Thomas and son, Everett; from Wayne township, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Downing and family.

BUYS ANTIQUE BAYONETS

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Weapons used 80-odd years ago in the Civil War have been dug out of an old curio shop by Adj. Gen. T. A. Frazier for use by the Tennessee State Guard. They consist of 4,200 antique bayonets, purchased at 15 cents apiece, plus the scabbards at 10 cents each. Rusted with age when uncovered in a storeroom of a New York arms and curio shop, the old-time instruments of war were shipped to Tennessee and are now being refurbished in a state institution for distribution to the shotgun companies of the guard.

Narrow Silhouette

THIS sheer black frock, which is an answer to a hot afternoon or evening in town, is a triumph for the narrow silhouette. Fabric is conserved, but not at the expense of chic... nor is the effect of the dress something lifted bodily from the ragbag of the past. It's a new and lovely fashion.

The shepherdess neckline of this sheer black frock is edged with self ruffling which drapes flat; an apron line front is outlined with the same self treatment.

YEARNs FOR MAPLE LEAVES
LACONIA, N. H.—Out of the South Pacific war theatre came a letter from a soldier expressing a yearning for a sight of maple leaves. So Mrs. Howard Robbins, of Exter, packed a box of fresh green maple leaves and sent it to the soldier via Hawaii. She hopes it will reach him in good condition and that he will be pleased.

EXTEND LIFE OF WOOD
NEW YORK—Preservatives are extending the life of wood in many ways of interest to the home builder. Besides adding to the permanence of wooden structures, preservatives injected into wood by pressure treatment prevent decay, make the wood toxic to termites, and also provide protection against flames.

STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, August 18
A PARTICULARLY auspicious time for seeking promotion, favors, and other tokens of good will and esteem from those in high places, either in business, employment or from group, community or public officials. All should be kindly disposed, especially to those who have worked hard and faithfully for rewards of merit. The accent is placed this day on courtship, romance, popularity and charm, with all the claims of youth, its ideals and aspirations under splendid auguries for fulfillment.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of advancement, promotion, preferment and favors from those in power and authority, in employment, in public posts or with other influential personages. Seek such emoluments and aims with the force of personality, with charm and magnetic approach, as these are under splendid stimulus for achievement of hopes and wishes. Romance, courtship or marriage should bring much practical satisfaction as well as youthful ideals and ambitions.

Massillon To Return To Gridiron Spotlight

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—With at least 15 Ohio colleges out of the football picture for the duration, the gridiron sport as played by the high school boys undoubtedly will come in for greater attention this fall.

And already the cry around the northeastern Ohio high school pigskin fields is "Watch out for Massillon." The city that gave Paul Brown to Ohio State university and the Big Ten again has the football fever.

Toppled from the throne of state and mythical national supremacy by Canton McKinley's Bulldogs last fall by a 35 to 0 score, Massillon, Stark county football fanatics report, is out to regain its spot in the sun.

Even Coach Bup Rearick of McKinley insists Massillon again will have a powerful football eleven.

"This idea that there will be a permanent Massillon Tiger collapse," said the Bulldog mentor, "is completely unfounded. After the annual Massillon varsity senior game last Spring I said the 1943 Tigers would be plenty tough and I haven't changed my mind during the Summer."

Although Massillon Coach Elwood Kammer has suffered serious losses by graduation and calls to the armed forces, the Tigers will begin the campaign with an excellent nucleus of veteran material.

"Regulars or near-regulars from last fall are Capt. Bob Wallace, Don Willmot, Tom Jasinski, Romeo Pellegrini and Bob Williams.

Wallace was one of the finest linemen in the state last year. Jasinski, who is past the 18-year-old mark, was turned down by the army recently, giving Kammer additional material.

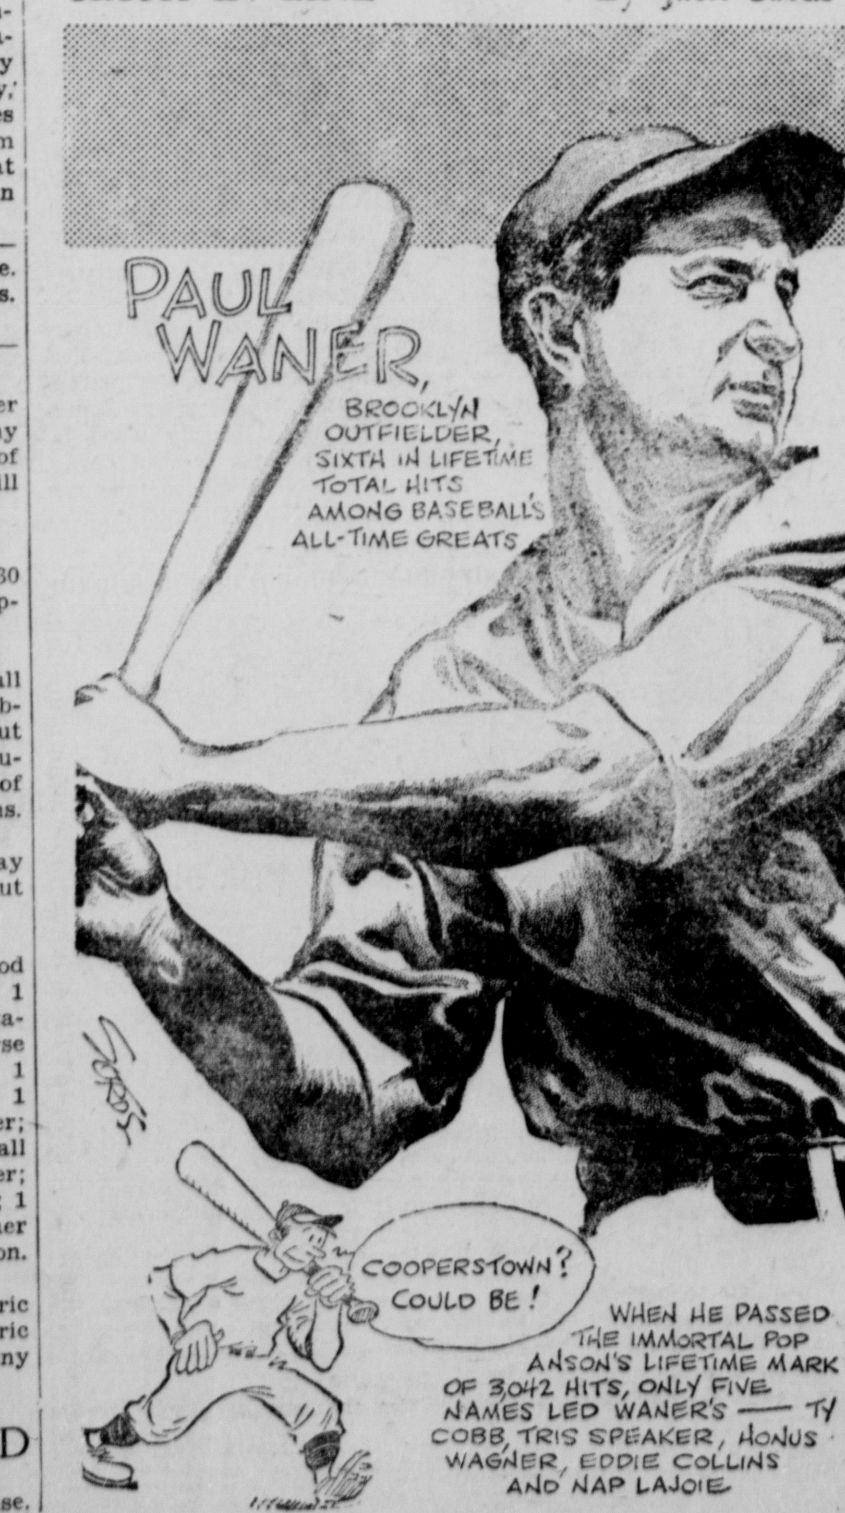

Although the war has put a damper on some sports, it is not expected to have any effect on Massillon football. As one observer pointed out, it takes more than one defeat to dampen completely the enthusiasm of a city that for 10 years has been claiming, with some cause, to be the "best football town in the country."

Massillon has a "neighborhood" schedule for the first time in a decade, the war forcing abandonment of inter-sectional rivalries. The Tigers meet Canton Lincoln, Canton Timken, Akron West, Akron St. Vincent, Steubenville, Mansfield, Warren, Youngstown Rayen and Canton McKinley.

REDS HOPEFUL OF DEFEATING CARDINAL CREW

CINCINNATI, Aug. 18.—Striking their true stride as the baseball season churns towards its climax, the Cincinnati Reds will return to Crosley field for an important series with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

August 27 is the all-important date, and it promises to be the most gala occasion of the season. The Reds and Cards have eight more contests to play before the pennant race is decided, four of them in the forthcoming series. After the night game on the 27th, the Reds and Cards will tangle in a ladies' day attraction the day following, and in a doubleheader on Sunday, August 29.

The night game will be the occasion of Shrine Night, one of the most festive of the annual Crosley Field events. Members of that organization will parade in their colorful uniforms, with their own band, and there will be other pre-game activities.

The Chicago Cubs will follow the Cards to Cincinnati, meeting the Reds in a night game on August 31, and in single contests on September 1 and 2. The September 2 game is a ladies' day.

Right now the Reds are winding up a highly successful trip through the East. They are apparently better equipped than any other National League club to cope with the Cards, who are trying to repeat as winners in Ford Frick's circuit.

BROWN TO LOSE ACE POWHATAN GRID ATHLETE

MARTINS FERRY, Aug. 18.—The Martins Ferry Times said today that Coach Paul Brown and Ohio State university apparently will have to get along without the services of Frankie Kernik, the hard-hitting Powhatan backfield man. Kernik, honorably discharged from the Navy because of stomach ulcers, is reported headed for West Virginia university at Morgantown.

LAURELVILLE

The Pythian Sisters held their annual picnic at the Laurelville park Wednesday evening with seven members present.

The United Brethren Aid met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Grace Tolliver with eight members and one visitor, Mrs. Myrtle Eveland of South Bloomingville.

Mrs. Hattie Karr had devotionals and prayer. Refreshments were served. September meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Sadie Bell with Mrs. Bess Steel assisting.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Swenson and children, Kenneth Jr. and Virginia of Hillard, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Swenson.

Mrs. Allie Drumm fell Thursday off of the porch of her granddaughter, Mrs. Carl Swackhamer, spraining her wrist.

Mrs. Myrtle Eveland of South Bloomingville spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Eveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Turney Mowery and Mrs. Harold Tubbs and children of Zanesville were guests Sunday of friends in Laurelville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood and Mrs. Will Woods of Kingston and Mrs. Edwin Metcalf and children of Indiana were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Metcalf.

Sunday guests of Mrs. Minnie Boecher and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Boecher were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Flanigan and daughters Jean Ruth and Mrs. Helen Bland of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leach of Logan and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Flanigan and Sergeant Joe Stump of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mrs. Stillman Dille of Zanesville was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dille.

Mrs. John DeHaven of Cleveland was Thursday until Saturday guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Bowers.

Private Robert Ebert of Camp Venice Air Base, Florida, is spending a 10-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ebert of near Haynes.

Mrs. Anna Valentine of Columbus and Mrs. B. W. Starkey of Van Wert were weekend guests of Miss Maude Mettler.

HANK GORNICKI IN FAME'S HALL

Pittsburgh Hurler Given Credit For Pair Of Victories In Day

By John Cashman

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—One of the greatest Horatio Alger stories of the mound was freshly written into the records today, as Hank Gornicki of the Pittsburgh Pirates joined the ranks of pitching's iron men, the stalwarts who have won two games in one day. To make the feat not only thrilling but incredible, Hank has one of the seediest records in the National League.

Not since Emil Levesen did it in 1926 for the Cleveland Indians has a major leaguer pitched two victories in one day, and Gornicki is the first National League pitcher to attain this record since Herman Bell pitched St. Louis to a pair of wins in 1924. Yet, Hank's brace of triumphs raises his total of games won to a mousie six, as against nine losses.

Gornicki's leap into the list including Grover Alexander, who turned the trick twice, and Joe McGinnity, who has three such days to his credit, was accomplished with 8 to 0 and 4 to 3 triumphs over the Boston Braves yesterday, and to cap it all, Nate Andrews was charged with both losses.

This unusual situation was brought about when both played relief roles in the second game of the double-header.

Gornicki gave six hits in going the route in the opener, which saw the Pirates land on Andrews for five runs in the first game.

Both In Ninth

In the nightcap, Gornicki relieved starting twirler Xavier Reagin, no in the ninth, with the score knotted at 3-all, and Andrews relieved Al Javery on the Boston mound in the tenth.

Gornicki was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eleventh when a double by Bill Baker and a single by Pete Coscarart broke the tie.

Gornicki was then credited with his second win and Andrews charged with a dual loss when Rip Sewell set the Braves down in order in the last half of the eleventh.

Thus, Andrews had the misfortune to be the first man to lose two in one day since John Clark dropped a pair with the Phillies in 1927.

The Chicago Cubs whipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 7 to 4, with a four-run rally in the eighth, and in doing so took sixth place from the Phillies.

Harry Walker extended his hitting streak to 28 games as the St. Louis Cardinals thrashed the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 3. A dozen hits rattled off the bats of the Cards, including three triples and Whitely Kuroski's homer.

Eight runs in the last two innings gave the Cincinnati Reds a 10 to 4 victory over the New York Giants. The Reds went into the eighth with a two-run deficit, then scored five in that frame and three in the next.

The Philadelphia A's extended their losing streak to 11 straight as they dropped one to the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 3. The victory put the Tigers in a tie for third place in the American League with the Cleveland Indians.

Johnny Niggeling ended his own six-game losing streak and that of the St. Louis Browns by pitching five-hit ball to lead the Browns to a 4 to 1 win over the Boston Red Sox. Charged with the loss was Tex Hughson, who has not won one game in the west this season.

Charley Wensloff pitched a five-hit triumph for the New York Yankees, who whipped the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 2. The Sox saw a two run lead wiped out in the fifth as the Yanks got two runs on three hits and Wally Moses' error. In the eighth a walk, Moses' second error, and Wensloff's single filled the sacks, whereupon Bucky Ross walked in the winning run.

Karshner of Camp Maxey, Tex., as spent from Tuesday until Monday with his wife and daughter Sandra Sue.

Private Robert Ebert of Camp Venice Air Base, Florida, is spending a 10-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ebert of near Haynes.

Mrs. Anna Valentine of Columbus and Mrs. B. W. Starkey of Van Wert were weekend guests of Miss Maude Mettler.

Massillon To Return To Gridiron Spotlight

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—With at least 15 Ohio colleges out of the football picture for the duration, the gridiron sport as played by the high school boys undoubtedly will come in for greater attention this fall.

And already the cry around the northeastern Ohio high school piscin fields is "Watch out for Massillon." The city that gave Paul Brown to Ohio State university and the Big Ten again has the football fever.

Toppled from the throne of state and mythical national supremacy by Canton McKinley's Bulldogs last fall by a 35 to 0
score, Massillon, Stark county football fanatics report, is out to regain its spot in the sun.

Even Coach Bup Rearick of McKinley insists Massillon again will have a powerful football eleven.

"This idea that there will be a permanent Massillon Tiger collapse," said the Bulldog mentor,
"is completely unfounded. After the annual Massillon varsity-senior game last Spring I said the 1943 Tigers would be plenty tough and I haven't changed my mind
during the Summer."

Although Massillon Coach Elwood Kammer has suffered serious losses by graduation and calls to the armed forces, the Tigers will begin the campaign with an excellent nucleus of veteran material.

*Regulars or near-regulars from last fall are Capt. Bob Wallace,
Don Willmot, Tom Jasinski,
Romeo Pellegrini and Bob Williams.

Wallace was one of the finest linemen in the state last year.
Jasinski, who is past the 18-year-old mark, was turned down by the army recently, giving Kam-mer additional material.

Although the war has put a damper on some sports, it is not expected to have any effect on Massillon football. As one observer pointed out, it takes more than one defeat to dampen completely the enthusiasm of a city that for 10 years has been claiming, with some cause, to be the "best football town in the country."

Massillon has a "neighborhood" schedule for the first time in a decade, the war forcing abandonment of inter-sectional rivalries.
The Tigers meet Canton Lincoln,
Canton Timken, Akron West,
Akron St. Vincent, Steubenville,
Mansfield, Warren, Youngstown
Rayen and Canton McKinley.

August 27 is the all-important

The Reds and Cards have eight

them in the forthcoming series.
After the night game on the 27th, the Reds and Cards will tangle in a ladies' day attraction the day fol-

Sunday, August 29.

The night game will be the oc-

ganization will parade in their colored uniforms, with their own

The Chicago Cubs will follow the Cards to Cincinnati, meeting the Reds in a night game on August 31, and in single contests on September 1 and 2. The September 2 game is a ladies' day.

Right now the Reds are winding up a highly successful trip through the East. They are apparently better equipped than any other National League club to cope with the Cards, who are trying to repeat as winners in Ford Frick's circuit.

STORY OF SULFA
 "The Weapon That Saves Lives," a thrilling drama of the history and discovery of sulfa drugs, and the miraculous part they play in saving lives today, will be broadcast by Cavalcade of America over NBC on Monday, August 23. Edmund Lowe, one of the country's favorite movie actors, will be starred as narrator.
 Back in the 16th century, when the cycle of scientific experiments and discoveries that ended with the development of sulfa, as started, scientists of those days probably little dreamed that a soldier of the 20th century would be using the ultimate result of their work on a jungle island in the south Pacific. Today, few of us realize that the scientists of that era started the idea rolling that today saves the lives of our fighting sons, brothers, husbands and sweethearts on the battle fronts of the entire world. Yet such is the story of sulfa... and Cavalcade's dramatization of the history of the miracle drug tells of the beginning... of the heartaches, the failures, and the oblivion that accompanied those early experiments.

MOORE AND GAXTON
 Vivitor Moore and William Gaxton, popular comedians of stage and screen, have been invited to be the guest book on the "Paul Whiteman Presents..." program, starring Dinah Shore, Sunday at 8 p. m. over NBC.
 Moore and Gaxton, who have appeared in such stage successes as "Anything Goes," "Leave It To Me," and "Louisiana Purchase," won their radio laurels last season when they became one of the most popular and frequently invited guests on leading network shows. This fall, however, the comedy team will give up guesting as they have been signed up as regular members of the show starring Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy.

 Dinah Shore has lined up an ample portion of sweet swing songs, and will join "Pops" Whiteman and Bill Goodwin with hosting duties. Paul Whiteman's 35-piece orchestra provides the musical background for the half-hour show.
LEVANT AND CROSBY
 Oscar Levant, the "Peck's Bad Boy" of "Information Please," will be on hand at the Music Hall, Thursday evening at 9 over NBC, to trade "bon mots" with Bing Crosby.
 Never one to use the usual in the English language, Bing will have to be at his best to cope with this week's guest. Levant's pungent and vitriolic tongue is a legend wherever people of the entertainment world gather and the "Information Please" is not one to make any exceptions. Although his serious musicianship has earned him the right to play piano solos with several symphonies, Levant has a desire to sing which always seems to show itself whenever he appears. When these occasions arise, Bing takes over the ivory keyboard and accompanies him.
 On the musical side of the evening's ledger, Bing will join the Charliettes and the Music Mads on Frank Loesser's new song about the men of the walking army, "What Do We Do in the Infantry." Trudy Erwin and Bing will do a duet on "Oklahoma," the popular song from the stage success, "Oklahoma." Bing's closing number for the evening will be "Nevada" with the musical background provided by John Scott Trotter's orchestra.
"STAGE DOOR CANTEN"
 The screen actress, Joan Blondell, the Singing Stars Connie Haines and Morton Downey and the pugilist-turned-comedian, Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom, are the "Stage Door Canteen" guests for the broadcast on Thursday at 9:30 p. m. over station WBNS. They'll join with the show's regulars, Bert Lytell as host and Raymond Paige's orchestra in half an hour of drama, music and comedy.

Annual Council Gets Under Way At Mount of Praise Camp

CHURCH CHIEFS ASSEMBLE FOR OPENING TALK

Moderator E. A. Keaton Gives Address To Gathering Of Representatives

ELECTION IS HIGHLIGHT

General Sessions Opening Sunday To Draw From Three States

Thirty-fifth annual council of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union got under way at the Mount of Praise campground, East Ohio street, Wednesday afternoon with scores of leaders of the denomination present to hear the opening address of the moderator, the Rev. E. A. Keaton of Chillicothe.

The Rev. Mr. Keaton is executive director of the Mount of Praise campground organization. While the number of ministers and church leaders present for the opening of the Council session was not estimated, the Rev. Ross W. Hayslip of the Circleville church, who is in charge of publicity this year, said that all churches of the Ohio district would be represented.

Evening Song Service
The Council session will be in full swing Wednesday evening when a song service is conducted at 8 o'clock, followed by preaching at 8:30 by the Rev. Morton Dorsey, evangelist of the Church of Christ in Christian Union.

Election Scheduled
Election of Council officers, scheduled for Thursday morning, is one of the Council session highlights.

The Council continues during Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday with the regular camp meeting also starting Sunday. That day will see a great influx of church members from all parts of Ohio and from West Virginia and Kentucky.

Ends August 28
The camp meeting continues until August 28 with morning, afternoon and evening sessions being conducted.

In charge of song services this year will be Neil Keaton, son of the Rev. E. A. Keaton, who is training for such work in his church.

Thursday Program
The Thursday program opens at 7 o'clock with a prayer and praise service in charge of the Rev. Peter McCain. After the business hour and election of Council officers, the Rev. Lavetta Serrott will speak on "Our Sunday School and Child Delinquency". After a 9 o'clock adjournment for breakfast a song service will be held prior to preaching at 11 a. m. by the Rev. Thomas Hermiz of Athens, Pa.

Thursday afternoon service begins at 2 o'clock, with the Rev. Mary A. Johnson speaking at 3 o'clock.

Highlight of the Thursday evening program will be the sermon by the Rev. A. E. Sager, pastor of Jefferson avenue church, Chillicothe.

All dormitory space at the Mount of Praise was contracted many weeks ago by members of the church from surrounding cities. Many other persons will be housed in trailers and tents.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Whoso robbeth his father or his mother, and saith, it is no transgression; the same is the companion of a destroyer. — Proverbs 28:24.

Captain Thomas Drum, who has enjoyed a three week leave at his home in Circleville, has returned to McCloskey general hospital, Temple, Texas, for medical treatment. Drum, a member of the 37th Division, returned to the United States after southwest Pacific service for treatment of rheumatoid arthritis.

Annual meeting of the South-Central Ohio Rural Electric association is scheduled Thursday at Lancaster fairgrounds beginning at 10 a. m. A full program is planned by the cooperative which is headed by Howard Newell Stevenson of near Circleville.

Twenty-two raccoon from the Milan, O., state farm, were distributed throughout Pickaway county Tuesday by Clarence Francis, Pickaway county conservation officer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith Cain, 151 East Mill street, are parents of a son born Tuesday in Berger hospital.

Mrs. Floyd Brown and baby son were removed Tuesday to their home, Circleville Route 3, from Berger hospital.

Mrs. Raymond Aldridge and infant daughter, Theresa Ann, were discharged Tuesday from Berger hospital and removed to their home, 214 West Ohio street.

James Arledge, who is slowly recovering from complications following a tonsil operation, was removed Wednesday from Berger hospital to his home, Elm avenue.

Paul David Young, 229 East High street, Donald Lee Ott, Circleville Route 4, Harding Smith, Circleville Route 1, and Richard Shaw, 425 South Pickaway street, were discharged Wednesday from Berger hospital following tonsil operations.

Circleville Elks were conducting their annual picnic Wednesday at the David Dunlap farm in Pickaway township. Elks from numerous south central Ohio cities also joined the local organization in the outing which started in early afternoon and continues through the evening.

OSCAR TROEHLER HURT IN ACCIDENTAL BLAST

Corporal Oscar Troehler, stationed in North Africa, is in a base hospital after suffering a hand injury in explosion of a blasting cap.

Mrs. Troehler of near Circleville, who received word from her husband of his injury, said that no other information was given to her except that four fingers had been injured and that Corporal Troehler remained in the hospital for treatment.

The soldier has been overseas for several months.

Friends wishing to write him should address their mail: Corporal Oscar Troehler, ASN 3577305 APO 36, care of postmaster, New York.

and others will be assigned to private homes in Circleville.

Campground officials are expecting no difficulty so far as food for the camp meeting visitors is concerned. While some foods served in past years will not be available leaders of the organization say that they have been assured of enough to care for the crowds which annually attend the meetings.

KENTUCKY TRIO BOUND OVER ON FORGERY CHARGE

Three Kentuckians arrested here two weeks ago for Madison county grand jury under $1,000 bond each. All three have been committed to jail in default of bond.

The trio included Andrew Carter, his wife, and Ralph Pennington.

All were sought for passing bad checks in Mount Sterling. Mount Sterling merchants have identified the trio, Sheriff Charles Radcliff has been informed.

The trio was arrested in a room at the American Hotel by Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious after an all-day vigil. The wife and small child of Pennington were released from custody after their arrest here.

GAS COMPANY PLANS LOCAL CANNING FAIR

A unique canning fair is to be conducted in Circleville September 20-27 by the Gas Company. A total of $50 in cash and 108 prize ribbons will be awarded. Entries provide for almost every type of home-canned food that the housewife is likely to put up. There are 36 classes including varieties of fruits, vegetables, meat and pickles.

Rules governing the entries and entry blanks are available at The Gas Company office. Also, special jar labels are provided. No entrance fee is charged, the event being staged in the interest of wartime food preservation.

The canned food with prize ribbons attached to winning entries will be displayed. A local committee of judges will be announced later.

Gas users in the vicinity of Circleville including nearby communities are invited to participate in the Gasco Home Canning Fair.

TEACHER ROSTER NOW COMPLETE AT LAURELVILLE

Laurelville schools have completed their teaching roster for the 1943-44 term with employment of Gay Kruger, MacArthur, who accepted the high school principalship after rejecting a similar post at Pickaway township.

Kruger, a graduate of Ohio university, will teach science and assist in the school's athletic program. He formerly taught in the Vinton county rural schools. He succeeds Harold D. Archer, recently inducted into the armed services, as principal.

Miss Mary Baker, who formerly taught in Pickaway county, has been hired as music instructor to fill a vacancy left by resignation of Maxine Wernich.

Grace Anderson of Laurelville has been employed as an elementary teacher succeeding Anne Moorehead, who is removing to Union Furnace.

All faculties of Hocking county schools have now been completed, Superintendent S. H. Dillon declared Tuesday.

THEY PACK 'EM IN SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA

An entertainment unit of American and Australian servicemen is packing 'em in every night at jungle "theatres" here. Included in the cast are First Lieut. Leo Herzog, of Galveston, Texas, who danced in Hellzapoppin; Sgt. Milton Bouterberg, of Milwaukee, who played with Horace Heidt's band; and Staff Sgt. Harvey Long, of Seattle, Wash., former West Coast professional magician.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

RUBBER DELUGE
Officials in the office of the Rubber Administrator are beginning to wonder what they can do with the hundreds of thousands of tons of synthetic rubber which will come from the new plants next year. It seems a little late, but they are now facing the elementary question of whether or not the tire companies can handle the vast quantities of synthetic rubber.

The great amount of rubber ever processed by the nation's rubber companies in one year was 540,000 tons. But next year we shall have nearly one million tons to deal with. Obviously, the present facilities will be inadequate.

But the problem is aggravated by the fact that tire manufacturing machinery has been knocked down and stored away so that rubber companies could convert to production for the war. Instead of tires, they have been making rubber boats, balloons, tank treads, and life rafts.

Thus we have the problem of finding new plant space in which to bring the machinery back into production, and the further problem of creating entirely new productive facilities to take care of the increased quantities of rubber which will be available for manufacture.

NOTE: The problem of synthetic rubber tires, as previously noted in this column, is quality, not quantity. There will not be enough natural rubber to mix with synthetic to insure a high quality in heavy duty tires.

BADOGGIO STYMIED
State Department officials believe that Badoglio took office with the definite intention of getting Italy out of the war and that he cannot turn back from that purpose. But if he had proceeded directly, the Germans would have stepped in and Badoglio would have stepped out before he could catch his breath.

It must be remembered that the German force in Italy is not merely a military force. German civilian officials are in control of practically all railroad, telegraph, and other communication facilities, as well as holding or supervising important municipal and provincial government posts. Thus it becomes impossible for the Italian government to take any steps without the Germans being fully aware.

According to this view, the Badoglio "cooperation" with the Nazis is no indication of what he may hope to do, or try to do later. Likewise, the subsiding of civilian protests against the Bad-

SOUVENIRS OF WAR SENT HOME BY GAYLE WOLF

Mrs. Gayle Wolf, North Pickaway street, the former Ann Denman, has received an interesting shipment of articles sent to her by her husband, Lieutenant Wolf, when he was in India. The lieutenant is attached to the ferry command and has seen service in numerous theatres of war.

Mrs. Wolf, who lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denman, 405 North Pickaway street, said Wednesday that the shipment includes vases, trays, cigarette holders made of silver and inlaid with stone dust; hand-carved ivory figures, carved sandalwood jewel box, inlaid ivory jewel box, brass candle holders, opal bracelet and ring, and numerous other items.

The articles from India have been placed on a table in the Denman home with other articles received from Africa, and Mrs. Wolf is inviting her friends to view the collection. The African items include carved ebony heads representing several tribes, brass tray, alabaster carvings of the Pyramids and Sphinx, leather slippers and other items.

Persons wishing to view the collection should go to the Denman home after 7 o'clock in the evening.

oglio government should not be regarded as indicating that Badoglio has resorted to the same suppressive measures as Mussolini.

State Department officials point out that liberal civilian elements have now shown their hand and thus become vulnerable to Nazi reprisal. Thousands of men have signed manifestoes, and scores of editorial writers have broken out into a fine frenzy against Fascism. But this only makes them more vulnerable to the Nazis, who, after all, are still in control.

These Italian leaders, realizing it is no easy matter to step out of the war, are now moderating their tune, and giving Badoglio a chance to work out plans for peace.

ELECTION IS HIGHLIGHT

General Sessions Opening Sunday To Draw From Three States

Thirty-fifth annual council of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union got under way at the Mount of Praise campground, East Ohio street, Wednesday afternoon with scores of leaders of the denomination present to hear the opening address of the moderator, the Rev. E. A. Keaton of Chillicothe.

The Rev. Mr. Keaton is executive director of the Mount of Praise campground organization. While the number of ministers and church leaders present for the opening of the Council session was not estimated, the Rev. Ross W. Hayslip of the Circleville church, who is in charge of publicity this year, said that all churches of the Ohio district would be represented.

Evening Song Service

The Council session will be in full swing Wednesday evening when a song service is conducted at 8 o'clock, followed by preaching at 8:30 by the Rev. Morton Dorsey, evangelist of the Church of Christ in Christian Union.

During the business session Wednesday afternoon committees to serve during the Council meeting were to be named.

Election Scheduled

Election of Council officers, scheduled for Thursday morning, is one of the Council session highlights.

The Council continues during Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday with the regular camp meeting also starting Sunday. That day will see a great influx of church members from all parts of Ohio and from West Virginia and Kentucky.

Ends August 28

The camp meeting continues until August 28 with morning, afternoon and evening sessions being conducted.

In charge of song services this year will be Neil Keaton, son of the Rev. E. A. Keaton, who is training for such work in his church.

Thursday Program

The Thursday program opens at 7 o'clock with a prayer and praise service in charge of the Rev. Peter McCain. After the business hour and election of Council officers, the Rev. Lavetta Serrott will speak on "Our Sunday School and Child Delinquency". After a 9 o'clock adjournment for breakfast a song service will be held prior to preaching at 11 a. m. by the Rev. Thomas Hermiz of Athens, Pa.

Thursday afternoon service begins at 2 o'clock, with the Rev. Mary A. Johnson speaking at 3 o'clock.

Highlight of the Thursday evening program will be the sermon by the Rev. A. E. Sager, pastor of Jefferson avenue church, Chillicothe.

All dormitory space at the Mount of Praise was contracted many weeks ago by members of the church from surrounding cities. Many other persons will be housed in trailers and tents.

OSCAR TROEHLER HURT IN ACCIDENTAL BLAST

Corporal Oscar Troehler, stationed in North Africa, is in a base hospital after suffering a hand injury in explosion of a blasting cap.

Mrs. Troehler of near Circleville, who received word from her husband of his injury, said that no other information was given to her except that four fingers had been injured and that Corporal Troehler remained in the hospital for treatment.

The soldier has been overseas for several months.

Friends wishing to write him should address their mail: Corporal Oscar Troehler, ASN 3577305, APO 36, care of postmaster, New York.

and others will be assigned to private homes in Circleville.

Campground officials are expecting no difficulty so far as food for the camp meeting visitors is concerned. While some foods served in past years will not be available leaders of the organization say that they have been assured of enough to care for the crowds which annually attend the meetings.

KENTUCKY TRIO BOUND OVER ON FORGERY CHARGE

Three Kentuckians arrested here two weeks ago for Madison county on charges of forgery have been bound to the Madison county grand jury under $1,000 bond each. All three have been committed to jail in default of bond.

The trio included Andrew Carter, his wife, and Ralph Pennington.

All were sought for passing bad checks in Mount Sterling. Mount Sterling merchants have identified the trio, Sheriff Charles Radcliff has been informed.

The trio was arrested in a room at the American Hotel by Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious after an all-day vigil. The wife and small child of Pennington were released from custody after their arrest here.

GAS COMPANY PLANS LOCAL CANNING FAIR

A unique canning fair is to be conducted in Circleville September 20-27 by the Gas Company. A total of $50 in cash and 108 prize ribbons will be awarded. Entries provide for almost every type of home-canned food that the housewife is likely to put up. There are 36 classes including varieties of fruits, vegetables, meat and pickles.

Rules governing the entries and entry blanks are available at the Gas Company office. Also, special jar labels are provided. No entrance fee is charged, the event being staged in the interest of wartime food preservation.

The canned food with prize ribbons attached to winning entries will be displayed. A local committee of judges will be announced later.

Gas users in the vicinity of Circleville including nearby communities are invited to participate in the Gasco Home Canning Fair.

TEACHER ROSTER NOW COMPLETE AT LAURELVILLE

Laurelville schools have completed their teaching roster for the 1943-44 term with employment of Gay Kruger, MacArthur, who accepted the high school principalship after rejecting a similar post at Pickaway township.

Kruger, a graduate of Ohio university, will teach science and assist in the school's athletic program. He formerly taught in the Vinton county rural schools. He succeeds Harold D. Archer, recently inducted into the armed services, as principal.

Miss Mary Baker, who formerly taught in Pickaway county, has been hired as music instructor to fill a vacancy left by resignation of Maxine Wernich.

Grace Anderson of Laurelville has been employed as an elementary teacher succeeding Anne Moorehead, who is removing to Union Furnace.

All faculties of Hocking county schools have now been completed. Superintendent S. H. Dillon declared Tuesday.

RUBBER DELUGE

Officials in the office of the Rubber Administrator are beginning to wonder what they can do with the hundreds of thousands of tons of synthetic rubber which will come from the new plants next year. It seems a little late, but they are now facing the elementary question of whether or not the tire companies can handle the vast quantities of synthetic rubber.

The great amount of rubber ever processed by the nation's rubber companies in one year was 540,000 tons. But next year we shall have nearly one million tons to deal with. Obviously, the present facilities will be inadequate.

But the problem is aggravated by the fact that tire manufacturing machinery has been knocked down and stored away so that rubber companies could convert to production for the war. Instead of tires, they have been making rubber boats, balloons, tank treads, and life rafts.

Thus we have the problem of finding new plant space in which to bring the machinery back into production, and the further problem of creating entirely new productive facilities to take care of the increased quantities of rubber which will be available for manufacture.

NOTE: The problem of synthetic rubber tires, as previously noted in this column, is quality, not quantity. There will not be enough natural rubber to mix with synthetic to insure a high quality in heavy duty tires.

BADOGGIO STYMIED

State Department officials believe that Badoglio took office with the definite intention of getting Italy out of the war and that he cannot turn back from that purpose. But if he had proceeded directly, the Germans would have stepped in and Badoglio would have stepped out before he could catch his breath.

It must be remembered that the German force in Italy is not merely a military force. German civilian officials are in control of practically all railroad, telegraph, and other communication facilities, as well as holding or supervising important municipal and provincial government posts. Thus it becomes impossible for the Italian government to take any steps without the Germans being fully aware.

According to this view, the Badoglio "cooperation" with the Nazis is no indication of what he may hope to do, or try to do later. Likewise, the subsiding of civilian protests against the Bad-

SOUVENIRS OF WAR SENT HOME BY GAYLE WOLF

Mrs. Gayle Wolf, North Pickaway street, the former Ann Denman, has received an interesting shipment of articles sent to her by her husband, Lieutenant Wolf, when he was in India. The lieutenant is attached to the ferry command and has seen service in numerous theatres of war.

Mrs. Wolf, who lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Denman, 405 North Pickaway street, said Wednesday that the shipment includes vases, trays, cigarette holders made of silver and inlaid with stone dust; hand-carved ivory figures, carved sandlewood jewel box, inlaid ivory jewel box, brass candle holders, opal bracelet and ring, and numerous other items.

The articles from India have been placed on a table in the Denman home with other articles received from Africa, and Mrs. Wolf is inviting her friends to view the collection. The African items include carved ebony heads representing several tribes, brass tray, alabaster carvings of the Pyramids and Sphinx, leather slippers and other items.

Persons wishing to view the collection should go to the Denman home after 7 o'clock in the evening.

oglio government should not be regarded as indicating that Badoglio has resorted to the same suppressive measures as Mussolini.

State Department officials point out that liberal civilian elements have now shown their hand and thus become vulnerable to Nazi reprisal. Thousands of men have signed manifestoes, and scores of editorial writers have broken out into a fine fury against Fascism. But this only makes them more vulnerable to the Nazis, who, after all, are still in control.

These Italian leaders, realizing it is no easy matter to step out of the war, are now moderating their tune, and giving Badoglio a chance to work out plans for peace.
